SUPERIOR COURT

Judge Lawton Opened the Criminal Session This Morning

Many Stiff Sentences Imposed Upon Various Offenders—Man Charged With Larceny Was About to be Placed on Probation When a Bad Break Got Him Eight Months'—Wm. E. Lawrenson Gets 18 Months for Robbing Hardware Store

The superior criminal court opened this morning at the court house in Gorham street for the consideration of Lowell cases with Judge Frederick Lawton presiding, and District Attorney Higgins, Asst. District Attorney Wier and State Officer Byrne representing the prosecution.

All the jurymen on the panel were in their seats at the opening hour, 10 o'clock, and of four who asked to be excused three were successful.

Peter H. Savage, the well-known undertaker, was one of the successful applicants.

Divine Invocation was offered by Rev. Nathan W. Matthews.

Without delay the consideration of appeal cases in which the offenders were in jail awaiting sentence, were taken up.

Ella F. Roberts, who was on bail on an appeal was sentenced to jail for four months.

Joseph Fontaine, who appealed from a sentence to the Concord reformatory for drunkenness, addressed the court and asked that he be sentenced to the state farm or house of correction.

"I don't think it is possible for you to send me to the reformatory," said Fontaine.

"Why not?" inquired Judge Lawton. "Because I am here for drunkenness, I have committed no crime," replied Fontaine.

He was sentenced to the reformatory.

Joseph Gleason and Alfred LaFrance, who were indicted for breaking and entering into C. H. Hanson's barn and stealing a half barrel of beer, were placed on probation. District Attorney Higgins said that he understood that the defendants were "pretty good fellows" and committed the act more as a lark than with criminal intent.

Outcome of Elopement

Donat Gagnon and Rosalie Lefevre of Exeter, N. H., pleaded guilty of lewd and lascivious cohabitation and the woman's husband appeared in court, forgave his wife and offered to take her back, but he wanted the man punished, claiming that he induced the woman to leave her home, taking with her a little child. Gagnon's mother and Lawyer Hamel appeared in Gagnon's behalf, but Probation Officer Ramsey stated that the chief of police gave him a bad reputation. He was sent to the house of correction for eight months, while the Lefevre woman was placed on probation, and was led from the court room by her husband, both in tears.

Nellie G. Earl was not only placed on probation, but Probation Officer Slattery will pay her board for a week until she can secure employment in Lawrence where she formerly lived, as she has no home or friends here.

John Blitczek pleaded guilty on an appeal case of assault and battery and was fined $15.

18 Months' Sentence

William E. Lawrenson, who has a long court record, including a five year sentence for breaking and entering, pleaded guilty to an indictment for larceny of razors from the store of the Thompson Hardware company, was sentenced to the house of correction for 18 months.

Hector Adinian, who was indicted for carnal abuse, pleaded guilty to fornication and was sentenced to the house of correction for six months. Benjamin M. Randlett, on a similar charge, was sentenced to the reformatory.

Got Fifteen Months

James C. Brennan pleaded guilty to an indictment for breaking and entering Robinson's restaurant in Middlesex street July 24, was sent to the house of correction for 15 months.

Adolph Tremblay and Georgia Guimette pleaded guilty to an indictment for adultery. Probation Officer Slattery spoke a good word for the woman, but said that the man had a record of 20 arrests. Tremblay received six months in the house of correction, while the woman was placed on probation.

Frank Bergeron and Achille Lefebvre, the two boys who were indicted for breaking and entering and larceny of jewelry in the Greek colony were each sentenced to the Miss reformatory.

Salmon Goes Free

William P. Salmon, who appealed from a fine of $15 in police court for assaulting his wife was placed on probation and District Attorney Higgins, in recommending probation said: "I investigated this case and upon asking the officer of the Humane society about it was informed that the only trouble with Salmon was that he didn't give her enough."

A Bad Break

George M. Wilson, charged with breaking and entering a railroad car and larceny made one bad break that cost him eight months' liberty.

Wilson, who is a stranger in this court, broke into a car on the N. Y. N. H. and H. road and then jumped to Connecticut. While in Connecticut he heard that another man had been arrested for the job and rather than allow an innocent man suffer he came back and gave himself up.

This act appealed to the authorities and they were content to let him off on probation. All that was known of him was what he had told the police. He said his home was in Chelmsford, Mass., that he travelled all over the country and that he was arrested but once in San Francisco.

District Attorney Higgins had recommended probation, when he turned to Wilson who was in the dock and said, "Were you ever arrested before?" "Do you insist on my past record?" asked Wilson.

"Yes," said the district attorney, in surprise.

"Well, I refuse to answer," said Wilson.

He was then sentenced to the house of correction for eight months. Wilson then asked the court to change the sentence to the Lowell jail, but Judge Lawton declined to grant his request.

Several local drunk and vagrancy cases were placed on probation.

Peter Neault, a hen thief, was sent to the Massachusetts reformatory.

Edward S. Flynn and Herbert J. Scoble, juveniles, indicted for breaking and entering, were placed on probation.

Albert Bourassa pleaded guilty of rape and was sentenced to the house of correction.

Matthew J. Conley, drunkenness, received four months in jail.

The First Trial

The first case to go to trial was an appeal case of Cornelius Coleman, charged with non-support of his wife, and it was reached shortly before noon. The case was heard in police court some time. Mrs. Coleman said that her husband had contributed nothing towards her support for two years.

"Didn't you order me out of the house the day I left?" asked Coleman.

"I certainly did, and I had good reason," was the answer.

Coleman testified that he only received $7.50 a week and that he gave his $4 a week for board. "I have given my wife nothing but my board for 12 years; that's all she asked for. I haven't seen her since June."

As this was the first case to be tried, Judge Lawton in his charge spoke somewhat at length to all the jurymen on the general rules and suggestions in relation to their duties on the panel. His Honor in a comprehensive manner explained the rights of defendants brought before the court, and told the story of the jurymen who once when asked why he had voted a defendant guilty, replied: "Of course he's guilty. Didn't the grand jury indict him? What's he here for if he isn't guilty?" His Honor explained the grand jury proceedings and also explained a defendant's right to decline to testify. He also spoke at length on reasonable doubt, circumstantial evidence and disagreements.

Judge Lawton in his suggestions to the jury occupied half an hour and clearly and exhaustively explained the many features and obligations of jury duty and was listened to most attentively.

The jury retired shortly before one o'clock and Judge Lawton dismissed the others until 2 o'clock.

THE SCHOOL BOY IS AT HIS DESK ONCE MORE.

SCHOOLS OPENED

Today With Large Attendance in All Departments

Lowell's public schools opened to different schools said that the number of masters and teachers in the of scholars on the opening day compared favorably with last year. There will be between 100 and 150 more pupils in the high school than there were last year but it is expected that the attendance in the other schools will be about the same as last year.

The increase in the number of pupils in the High school may, Supt. Whitecomb says, cause some congestion, but the chances are that fairly good accommodations will be found for all. Last spring, after the closing of the schools, the furniture in the High school was readjusted and 101 more seats were put in.

The Morrill school kindergarten, facing the North common, will be closed this year. Very few pupils attended the school last year and it was decided to send all to the Cross street school.

Supt. Whitecomb allows that the enrollment at the close of the first week will show about the average number of pupils in the public schools.

That the "city that does things" is getting bigger, busier and last but not least, better, was evidenced this morning when the Monday morning session of police court ended but a little earlier than usual. There was quite a number of offenders in the cage and a few persons occupied seats in front of the enclosure but it was not the same sized aggregation that has frequented the old Market street house on a Monday morning.

The case of Henry L. Bent and William H. Quinlan charged with assault, was called for this morning, but was dismissed. Bent is a workman and Quinlan a vendor. They were employed at the Boston & Northern and were in the car which ran over and which later resulted in the death of Mary Gannett in Gorham street several weeks ago. It was reported that the grand jury had considered the case and returned a "no bill" and Judge Hadley dismissed the case.

Mary Christy was in court Saturday morning and released, but she no sooner received her freedom than she started to celebrate, and the result was that Mary adorned one of the seats in court this morning. She was sentenced to twenty days in jail, the court deeming it advisable to remove her from the influence of the saloons for a short period.

The Doherty and Wolten cases also appear on the docket for this term.

as to the disposition of the hotel cases, the district attorney replied: "They will be tried this term and I am going to try to try them while the court is sitting in this city, though that may not be possible."

The Doherty and Wolten cases also appear on the docket for this term.

bud man, according to the testimony offered by his wife. She informed the court that he is a heavy drinker, and when under the influence of liquor is very disorderly and at times threatens to do bodily harm. Thomas will spend the next two months in jail.

Mary Christy was in court Saturday morning and released, but she no sooner received her freedom than she started to celebrate, and the result was that Mary adorned one of the seats in court this morning.

The case of Henry L. Bent and William H. Quinlan charged with assault, was called for this morning, but was dismissed. Bent is a workman and Quinlan a vendor. It was reported that the grand jury had considered the case and returned a "no bill" and Judge Hadley dismissed the case.

Mary Grady, a third offender, is on parole from the state farm at Bridgewater, and will return to that institution.

Michael Gillay, when arrested thought he would fool the police by giving the name of Thomas Brady, but the eagle eye of one of the bluescots in attendance at the police station recognized Michael, and when he appeared in court this morning a new complaint was made out. Gillay is on parole from the state farm, and will be returned this afternoon.

Thomas J. Kelley, who at first gave the name of John O'Brien, was fined $5 being his second offense. James Danaby and Joseph Levesque, second offenders, were also fined $5.

John J. Cummings, a third offender, will spend the next few months at the state farm.

Edward J. Kirkpatrick and his better half, Annie A., were fined $5 each, as was Mary Green.

There were four drunks and nine first offenders were released.

Subsequently he graduated from the Dartmouth Medical school, after which he served as surgeon in the army for three years during the Civil War. He came to Lowell in 1872, and had practiced medicine here continuously ever since. Calumet at Dracut Grange, Tues. Eve.

DR. H. J. SMITH

Well Known Physician Died Saturday Night

Dr. Herman J. Smith, one of Lowell's leading physicians, passed away shortly after ten o'clock Saturday night at the Lowell hospital, aged 71 years, 9 months and 27 days. He had been a sufferer for thirty years past, but his illness did not assume a critical stage till a few weeks ago.

The deceased was a native of Dover, N. H., where he was born Nov. 15, 1835, and resided at Sudbury and at Westford, Mass., for upwards of 10 years, subsequently moving to Lowell, where he practiced his profession for 30 years.

He was a member of the first class of Tufts College, and received his degree of A. B. in 1858.

The late DR. HERMON J. SMITH.

The late DR. HERMON J. SMITH.

Granite state mills nearby, heard the cries and ran to their assistance.

His version of the affair is that Edward Cunningham, who seriously wounded Elton Stickney Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Seavey after a vain effort to force his attentions upon their 17-year-old daughter, Miss Sarah Seavey.

Cunningham met the girl Saturday noon while she was on the way to the railroad station with a friend. Mrs. William Belknap, and endeavored to persuade her toelope with him. This she refused to do. He told her then that she would go with him or with nobody, and started to pull his revolver. The girl screamed for help and her brother-in-law, who works in the number of men were coming on the scene and Cunningham fled to the woods.

Sheriff King was notified and started out on the trail, but up to a late hour he had eluded his pursuers. Yesterday afternoon one of the men who were guarding the Seavey home said he saw Cunningham near the freight sheds, but a thorough search failed to show any signs of his being there.

Last Saturday night Cunningham returned to the Seavey home at 9 o'clock with the intention of killing the girl. He knocked at the back door and the girl's mother answered the knock. He asked for the daughter, and before she could answer he pulled her into the back yard and at the same time tried to get his gun out of his hip-pocket, but Mrs. Seavey succeeded in preventing this.

She screamed for help and Elton Stickney, who was on the front steps, ran to her assistance. He had a 32-calibre rifle and he and Cunningham had a duel with their respective weapons, with the windup in favor of Cunningham, as Stickney received a bad stomach wound, and late last night was in a serious condition.

That Cunningham does not intend to give up until he gets some other member of the family is evident, for early yesterday morning a man who answers his description asked for water at a house which is only about a quarter of a mile from the Seavey home. Lovell George gave it to him but as he did not know him he thought it was one of the man-hunters.

Cunningham has a police record in Massachusetts that is hard to beat. He served 5½ years in the Charlestown prison for killing an old man by the name of Baxter who lived in Dawson Mass., about 15 years ago. He was convicted of manslaughter.

About five years ago he entered the home of his parents in Parker avenue Dracut, and threatened to kill them all, including his sister and brother. He filled the walls full of bullet holes. For this he served 10 months in the Lowell jail.

He is about 42 years old and a spinner by trade. He worked in the Granite State mills in this town for about a year until last spring, when he was forced to leave town by the Seavey girl's father, who had for a long time tried to break up the attachment between the girl and Cunningham.

To a reporter the father said: "I did not want my daughter to have anything to do with Cunningham, but she thought he was all right for a time. He kept writing to her after he left from Lowell and later from Franklin; she answered his letters for a while, but I made her stop and she then returned them to him unanswered. This riled him and he threatened to get even with me. I am afraid that he will stay in this vicinity until he gets a shot at my daughter, but I hope they will catch him before that."

Cunningham wrote a number of letters to the girl, telling her he was coming to see her and that he wanted her to marry him. In fact, he threatened to kill her before he left last summer if she did not marry him.

Sheriff King and a posse of 100 men have kept up a continuous search since Sunday night. He evidently knows the country well and has a secure hiding place, as from the time that he called for water at the George

FIRST GAME PLAYED ON BUN-

TING GROUNDS.

The first local game of football was played Saturday on the Bunting grounds, the contestants being the Buntington and North Billericay. The Billericay won by a score of three to two, but the Billericay team, at the close of the game, entered a formal protest claiming that the last goal made by the Billericay was scored after the time limit had lapsed. The defeated team contends that there were two and one-half minutes overtime played, and that the winning goal was made during the overtime.

WRESTLING NEWS

Chief War Eagle, the full blooded

Indian wrestler, is expected in Lowell tomorrow. Upon his arrival, he will make arrangements with one of the Lowell gymsnasiums to carry on his training for the match with Young

Prokos, which takes place in Associate

Hall Friday night of this week. War

Eagle weighs about 150 pounds, and if his recent performances are to be taken as a criterion, he is in the pink of condition. This will be his first appearance in this section, and if he loses, it will probably be his last. War Eagle is full of confidence, however. He is clever and will have three or four pounds on Young Prokos in the ring.

At Syracuse, N. Y., Friday evening,

War Eagle won from Leroy Kelley of New York in two straight falls, the first in 16m. 35s., and the second in 15m. 48s.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES

The proposed 250 mile Founders

Week automobile race in Fairmount park in Philadelphia will in all probability be held on Saturday morning,

October 10. All that is needed is the official permission from the Quaker City

Motor club from the park commission, which is understood to favor the plan.

The delay in the granting of this permission is due to the absence from the city of the president of the commission.

It is stated that eighteen entries, all high class, are already pledged. Frank

H. Verner will be on hand with his Studebaker, and the Lozier cars will be represented with a quartet. The Loziers will be represented by two 40-horse-power cars, one of which will be driven by Joe Tracy. If there are no Vanderbilt elimination trials Willie

Houpt will compete with a Chaywick, and it is probable that Knox cars will enter. Louis J. Bergold is expected to have his big Benz stock car and a big

Thomas for the race. George Davis may be seen on the course with an Apperson Jack Rabbit, and Thomas W.

Berger may be at the wheel of a Stearns.

A Stoddard-Dayton may also be entered.

The Chalmers-Detroit Motor company has formally withdrawn the entry filed with its Worcester, Mass.

agent, J. S. Harrington, of a Chalmers-

Detroit 40 horse-power stock car as a candidate for the American team in the Vanderbilt cup race.

"We are too busy building our regular models," says Hugh Chalmers, president of the company, "to give the necessary time and attention to the preparation of a car for the Vanderbilt cup race. Naturally we would not enter a race of this kind without a good deal of careful work in the way of preparing and testing out a car."

"Mr. Coffin, our vice-president and consulting engineer, who would have to supervise this work, has his entire time taken up getting our 1908 cars through the factory. Every department just now is working overtime to supply orders we have received. Even our racing drivers have been pressed into service as testers. Under these circumstances it would be out of the question for us to take the time necessary to prepare for such an important

EV. MR. KENNGOTT

lectured on the School and the Church

the First Trinitarian Congregational church, Sunday night, the pastor Rev. George F. Kenngott, preached "The School and the Church." He said his inspiration in Malachi, 2, 12: two words, "Master" and "Scholar." "He that awaketh" and "He answereth." Mr. Kenngott said in the business of the master, the teacher, the preacher, the professor, wake up; and the business of the scholar is to answer to the awakening.

It is always well for us to remember that Harvard university was founded by clergymen, and that nearly of the long line of colleges were founded by church interests. And still, its ministry and its members, church must have an active interest in the training of the children and youth in schools and colleges.

There cannot be any disengagement and religion, for there is no room that does not take into consideration the training of the soul. He cultured and an educated man, has trained himself to observe ethical principles, who has developed body, mind and soul, all together. Protestants cannot overestimate the power there is in the best school system. The Protestant church must take hold of the best in the parochial school, andlement the work of the public school. The worst man in any community is the man who has all the ring of the highest university, and not had it balanced by the development of his religious nature. Moreover, the church will supplement instruction of the public school by closing of its own. The Sunday school in a brief half-hour, can do little.

"I believe in the public school with all my heart. So long as we continue our interest and stand by the teachers and support them, the public school and the university will have their power among men."

"We cannot be too careful in the public schools in the selection of our teachers. I think we are over-estimating the power of great buildings and great equipment. It is that man that wakes up, that counts. In the last analysis, the success of our public schools depends upon the care with which we select our teachers."

"I cannot understand how our teachers can go on instructing to advantage, 60 boys and girls, five hours a day. We say that our normal school is turning out more teachers than we can use in Lowell. It seems to me we might well multiply our number of teachers. I believe also in as high pay as possible, for our teachers."

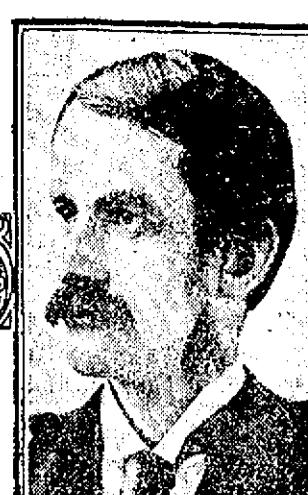

"The business of the church, as the business of the school, must not be primarily to teach the Bible, or reading and writing, but to teach boys and girls, men and women. We have been too much in the habit of teaching things. I believe in teaching by suggestion, in the Sunday school as in the public school; and in studying the physical defects of the children. We have made our church prayer meeting too much for one kind of people. There ought to be a place for those who keep quiet, as well as for those who can talk."

"The business of the Sunday school teacher, like that of the day school teacher, is to awaken. The business of the child is to respond."

"In the last analysis, each one of us stands, in our relation to others, as a teacher. No matter what comes, our business is to go on awakening, while some one responds."

RAVES MAY DIE*E. GERRY BROWN

Surgeons Fear His Skull is Fractured

BOSTON, N. H., Sept. 14.—Robert E. Gerry Brown, a member of the local board of selection, was notified yesterday that an assault had been committed upon John Graves, a resident of the Shirley district, occupying the McDougal house, and that the man's condition is serious.

Sheriff A. Robert Bunton, accompanied by Drs. Charles Weaver and Maurice Stark, went to the home where they found him unconscious and bleeding from the ears and mouth. An ugly wound in his head was sewed up, after which he was taken to the hospital, where he regained consciousness yesterday afternoon.

A story is that at 11:30 o'clock yesterday night William Conway, accompanied by Kelsie Oten and Alvin, the two latter negroes, and all employees of a lumber camp in Chestnut Hill district, came to his home. They say that the three men had been drinking and that they were inclined to make trouble. Finally Oten hit him, and he knew nothing until he became conscious under the surgeon's care.

Fred K. Ramsey of Manchester, here, and in company with Bunton went to the lumber and arrested the three men, also detained N. J. Kelley, Bell and Napoleon Demars, who are at Graves' home, as witnesses. Attending surgeons fear that it develops that Graves has a fractured skull.

GAMBLING RAID

SEIZURE WAS MADE AT ATLANTIC CITY.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 14.—Under instructions from Prosecutor Goldenberg, representing Gov. 25 detectives, headed by County Sheriff Baile, yesterday raided several of the largest negro gambling dens in the city, capturing 60 persons. Raids were made over the head of Police Woodruff and the authorities, who knew nothing of roundup until an order was sent by hall for the police patrol. The prosecutor said his detectives were unable to gain access to any large gambling places reported to be running and frequented by persons. The roundup was made before carry out Gov. Ford's orders can up Atlantic City.

TAFT'S TOUR

BEGIN ON WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 23

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 14.—William Taft's first campaigning tour will begin on Wednesday, September 23. If the date's present desires are observed, Mr. Taft yesterday indicated he would much like to talk with Chairman Hitchcock after Hitchcock has conferred in Chicago Monday with Sen. Dixie and Western managers concerning the set itinerary.

Arrangements to have the National League of Republican clubs hold a meeting in Cincinnati on September 22 made known to Mr. Taft today. The meeting of September 22 it is pointed out here, that will accept the invitation he has received from the Kentucky Bankers' Association and address them at Lexington on September 23. Mr. Taft has expressed a desire to speak in Tennessee and it is pointed out here, that will extend the Kentucky trip toville and Chattanooga and from St. Louis and Kansas City, thence into other middle-western cities.

and Mrs. Taft attended Christ Church yesterday and listened to services conducted by Rev. Mr. Knowlton.

FOUR DEMOCRATS IN RACE FOR GOVERNOR OF NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Because of the widespread discussion of Governor Hughes' candidacy for renomination much speculation and interest centers in the man the democrats will name to lead their fight in the Empire state. Politicians everywhere await with interest the results of the two state conventions which unquestionably will have much bearing on the national campaign. The men most prominently mentioned for the democratic nomination are Lieutenant Governor Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, W. Carl Ely of Buffalo, Judge William J. Gaynor and Edward M. Shepard of New York city.

WHITE PLAGUE INJURIES FATAL
Delegates Plan War on Tuberculosis

Woman Died of Fall From Car

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—By the end of this week hundreds of delegates from every country on the globe will have arrived to attend the international congress on tuberculosis, which opens Monday, Sept. 21. All sessions of the three weeks' congress will be held in the new national museum building. From every state in the Union, enough delegates will be present to fill a volume with a list of their names.

Even California, the farthest state, is sending 100 members, and Virginia will have 300 men and women in attendance. The burden of the preliminary work falls on Dr. John S. Fulton and Dr. Henry G. Byer. The former is secretary general and Dr. Byer is chairman of the exhibition committee. The great task of presenting the thousands of exhibits from a thousand points, in a scientific and interesting manner, has been kept by Dr. Byer busy. There are many interesting models of buildings, sanitaria, photographs, instruments and every conceivable object used in combating tuberculosis.

The international congress on tuberculosis is really seven congresses rolled into one, for there are seven sections. Special days have been set aside for various organizations and unorganized laymen to see into the workings of the great gathering. The entire second floor of the museum will be used for exhibition purposes and the exhibit will be divided into three parts, foreign, U. S. government and state exhibits. The most complete of the foreign exhibits are those from Germany and Switzerland.

The exhibit of the U. S. government will be the largest. To show exactly what the ravages of consumption mean, an electric flashlight will operate continuously, giving a flash for every death from consumption; that is, it will operate in accordance with figures which have been prepared on the subject.

SURPRISE PARTY
Miss Lyng Presented a Pretty Locket and Chain

DEER PARK, Md., Sept. 14.—William J. Bryan today put his stamp of approval on Sunday political speeches. Without his knowledge the residents around Mountain Lake Park were notified to assemble there at 3 o'clock yesterday to hear him talk. Over twelve hundred of them gathered, while Mr. Bryan, at Deer Park, was protesting to a local committee that he would make no speech. He finally was prevailed upon to take the three mile drive and shake hands with those at the assemblage, with the understanding that he should not speak.

STABBED TO DEATH

Girl Attacked at Close of Sunday School Service

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 14.—A special to the Observer from Newton says that Miss Willie Bullinger, 19 years old, was stabbed to death yesterday by Lon Rader, aged 21.

The girl was at the organ playing the closing hymn at Sunday school when Rader sprang across several benches and with his pocket knife stabbed her in the neck and breast.

She died almost instantly. Rader was arrested and is now in the Newton jail. Some months ago he was committed to the state insane asylum and in his ravings often mentioned Miss Bullinger's name. Recently he was discharged as cured. The dead was discharged as cured. The dead was probably prompted by unrequited love.

Dorchester Man Claims $200,000 Estate

BOSTON, Sept. 14—Victor Delamere, who for some years has conducted a cobbler shop on Neponset avenue, Neponset, left for New York en route for England, yesterday. He is accompanied by his wife and two sons, and is on his way to the kind of his ancestors to claim the £200,000 which is his portion of the estate of his uncle, the late Edward Terry of Northamptonshire.

Some months ago Delamere was notified of his rich relative's death and was requested to come to England and prove his right to a share of the fortune. His means would not allow him to take the trip, but finally a solicitor in England agreed to advance the necessary funds.

Mr. Delamere is 53 years of age and has lived in Neponset for 13 years. He was formerly a gateman of the New Haven road.

The committee of the Parker Avenue School Alumni association which was appointed to draw up the conditions and also to select the design for the medal which is to be given each year to the brightest scholar in the graduating class of the school have decided upon the following rules:

1. This medal is to be presented to the pupil having the highest standing in scholarship and deportment in the highest grade of the Parker Avenue school.

2. The pupil shall have been registered at the beginning of the school year.

3. The decision of awarding the medal shall be left to the teacher of the highest grade; this decision not to be final, but left to a committee appointed by the Parker Avenue School Alumni association.

4. All cases of unnecessary absence and tardiness shall disqualify a pupil trying for the medal. Such cases to be acted upon by the aforesaid teacher and committee.

5. The medal is to be of gold and will be suitably inscribed, bearing on it the name of the donors; underneath which will be the words "Presented to—giving the winner's name—for Excellence in Scholarship and Deportment."

BILLERICA NEWS*TWOMBLEY GIVES STATEMENT OF HORSE DEAL

The special town meeting which is to be held for the purpose of discussing the payment of the bill for two horses purchased by Edgar F. Twombly, the former highway surveyor, has resulted in Mr. Twombly issuing a statement of the case.

"Among several places I looked at a shipment of horses at Wheeler, McElveen & Co., I examined several pairs, and in my judgment selected the two best horses out of two pairs included in this shipment. These selected were in my opinion better suited for town work than either pair would have been, and made a more valuable pair than either of the existing pairs."

"Mr. Wheeler set $700 as a bottom price for the new pair selected by me; in the exchange he made an allowance of $10 for the old horses owned by the town; these were afterwards sold by auction for $31. The white mare brought $57, and the bay mare $24. The amount therefore for which Wheeler, McElveen & Co., were getting in exchange for the new pair of horses would be the balance due of $550, added to $31, the amount brought by the auction sale of the old pair making a purchase price to the town of $581.

"Before purchasing the horses I was informed of the cost prices of the several pairs included in the shipment examined. These were all sent to Wheeler, McElveen & Co., by a western shipper, and made up a large consignment. The bay mare brought was included in a pair consigned at $575; she was worth more than $287.50, half this amount, as she was best mare in the pair.

"The bay horse bought was included in a pair consigned at $577.50; he was worth more than $288.25, half this amount, as he was the best horse in his pair. The cost price of the horses bought in the west by the shipper to Wheeler, McElveen, was therefore the lowest calculation $575.25, but they should be added to this cost price. In the Boston market the expense of feeding, freight and selling charges which should be roughly calculated at $40 a horse, or $80 for the pair. Adding this last amount of $80 to the lowest western cost price of $575.25, the horses stood in Boston at the time I purchased them for the town at approximately a cost price of $558.25. The difference between this amount and the purchase price to the town of $581 as above figured shows a bonus of $24.25, which is made by the seller."

FIRE ON HOWARD STREET

The alarm from box 63 at 4:57 Sunday afternoon was for a small fire in a house in Howard street. It started in a clothes closet and worked its way to the roof. The damage was not very great.

PLAISTOW NOTES*ECHOES OF THE EXERCISES OF SATURDAY

The town of Plaistow Saturday looked like a blaze of glory. Every house in the pleasant little village was decorated with hunting and flags, the greater part of the decorating being the handwork of Chas. F. Young of this town.

Mr. A. G. Pollard was the biggest man in New Hampshire Saturday, according to the opinion of the residents of Plaistow.

Two special carloads of friends of Mr. Pollard in this city went to Plaistow and were received by the townspeople. Cheering by the people of Plaistow signified a hearty welcome. One of the first persons to meet the Lowell people was Isaac Sternberg, who was busy attending to the many details connected with the celebration. "Stern" was here, there and everywhere and at the present time is one of the most popular residents of the town. He took special pains to take care of the newspaper men.

Plaistow is fortunate in having one of the finest town halls in New Hampshire. The building is of brick and has a commodious assembly hall. This hall was most beautifully decorated with floral pieces and presented a very charming appearance. A reception lunch was served in the hall to invited guests, about four hundred being present.

Mr. Pollard's address in presenting the beautiful gift to the town was delivered in the style of a veteran orator. He is in reality the father of the town of Plaistow, for on all sides can be seen the gifts made by him to the town from time to time. Strange as it may seem the first work ever performed by Mr. Pollard was in a brickyard in Plaistow at the meagre salary of ten cents per day. His rise in the world, however, has been very rapid, for today he is the merchant prince of Lowell.

Solen W. Stevens fairly outdone himself in his oration.

The monument is a substantial and beautiful piece of work and reflects much credit on the designer. Mr. Tarbell, the landscape gardener, showed his skill in the grading of the grounds. Messrs. Mahon and McLean set the monument on a foundation where it will stand for ages, so substantially has the work been done. The bronze tablets on the four sides of the monument are in keeping with the other work. They were made by the T. F. McGinn & Sons Co. of Boston.

HON. BUTLER AMES

Has Invented a Flying Machine of Aeroplane Style

It Has Some Original Points That
Have Not Been Utilized in Aerial Navigation — First Flight
Soon to Be Made

The man who would beat Butler Ames for congress at the present writing will have to go some. The inventive section of the congressman's mind has been working overtime and after having perfected things to increase the speed of automobiles that he made himself he is now about to take wings and fly away either to Washington to look down on the scene of his arduous labors or to the highest point in Bretton Woods where he but recently shook the hay fever.

The congressman's latest invention is an aeroplane, a flying machine. His first soar will be from Salem, N. H., and if the machine bears the inventor above the earth, the congressman will not only have established a new discovery in flying machines, but will have discovered a new law in physics as well.

Now what show on earth or in the sky has the ordinary man with Butler Ames, a man who can scamper across the earth at the rate of 90 miles an hour, and by through the air at a rate scarcely exceeded by the eagle? It is no fair for the doughty congressman to be building all these things just to perpetuate himself in office.

It does beat the Dutch how fast things are going these days and if Charlie Glidden and the rest of the aeroplane flyers would live long and peacefully they had better keep off the air line between Lowell and Washington for Butler Ames allows that if his machine works all right he will fly to and from Washington every day.

Getting an early breakfast in Lowell and arriving in Washington in time for the opening of congress will be another jewel for the crowned head of evolution.

The ubiquity of the congressman will be the startling feature of his campaign and those who fail to read of his flying machine will wonder by what miracle the man moves.

The inventive genius of the young congressman comes to him in good faith and well moulded. His grandfather had it, his uncle, Paul Butler has it, and there you are. Paul Butler has made important inventions that are in use in the cartridge shops.

Last winter Congressman Ames set up a workshop in Washington, and lots of times when the society column had the congressman at pink teas he was boring holes and twisting wire in his workshop. He believed that the "heavier than air" machine would prove practical. He worked out a new plan, based upon the fact that two cards of equal size and weight, released at a given point in the air, would travel different distances provided that one was started at an angle that allowed it to complete regular revolutions, while the other fell dead and was given a secret trial and they worked all right.

Whatever that all means we are not prepared to state but that was the hinge that Butler's mind was swinging on when he conceived the flying machine thought and working upon that principle he planned a machine that should have two wings composed of a series of hoops upon a shaft, each one covered with oiled muslin.

Mr. Ames drew up his plans and applied for a patent. The wise guys in the patent office looked them over, shrugged their shoulders, grunted and told the congressman to make a noise like a hoop and roll away, but the congressman allowed that if he made a noise to resemble anything it would be the noise of wings. The patent office said that the theory of the wings was unimpeachable.

Nothing daunted the young inventor shouldered the sarcasm and discouragement of patent office fossils and went his way and not many days after leaving the patent office he was in touch with the United States navy. He was given facilities to try out his work and rigged up a set of the wings, they were given a secret trial and they worked all right.

A noisy tug was played at the disposal of the congressman and he put out in the bay with a set of the wings fastened to the sappole. He was desired to learn whether they would rise under the proper conditions. Again the experiment was a success.

There still remained the problem of whether they would carry a machine into the air bearing the weight of a gasoline engine and one or more men.

Ames returned to Lowell and began the actual construction of the invention. The train was derailed by an open switch while running at the rate of 40 miles an hour. The locomotive was overturned and two cars left the track.

The railway officials believe the wreck was the work of parties having a grudge against the company and are conducting their investigation upon this theory.

scribbled" several days ago, and orders given to set up the machine.

It was originally intended to make the first ascent last week, and the race track at Salem Depot, N. H., was engaged for the purpose. In setting up the machine, however, the full number of wires were not inserted, and it was necessary to do the work again. It will be ready for a trip within a short time.

And now may we inquire why not make the ascent from the Lowell boulevard?

RIVER CHOKED WITH FILTH.

The lower part of the Concord river is probably the dirtiest in the United States. It is choked with filth, and when the water runs low the stench is very annoying. The question of whether the river is to remain in this condition indefinitely or be dredged out is one that should engage the attention of the board of health. In its present state of stagnation the river must give rise to diseases of various kinds.

GLOOMY OUTLOOK FOR HUGHES.

So far as any test has been made in New York state, it seems to be unfavorable to the renomination of Governor Hughes, despite the mandate of the president in the interest of his man, Taft. The democrats of New York are getting ready to take over the state by electing a democratic governor and carrying the state for Bryan. The republicans resent Roosevelt's interference in an effort to force Hughes' nomination.

MR. POLLARD'S GIFT TO PLAISTOW.

It must have been a great source of pleasure to Mr. A. G. Pollard to present to his native town of Plaistow, N. H., a stately shaft in memory of the men of that town who fought for the union cause. Where is the man of patriotic instincts who would not like to do something of this kind for his native place, and yet, strange to say, there are thousands of men possessed of the means who have never shown any patriotic regard for the town or city of their birth. This stately shaft dedicated to the soldier heroes of Plaistow will equally commemorate the name, the liberality and the patriotism of the donor, Mr. Pollard.

IMPARTIAL SCHOOL INSPECTION NEEDED.

The park department is the one municipal department in which no important step forward is taken without the advice of an experienced expert, a landscape gardener, an expert on the city beautiful or some other authority upon the work in hand.

It is very evident that in this way whatever is undertaken will at least be in the right direction.

Now, why not adopt this same method in other departments?

How often have councilmen and aldermen decided upon matters on which they were entirely ignorant?

Would it not pay in such cases to call in an expert to pass upon matters on which the average official is incompetent to decide? This applies to street paving, to the quality of material, public buildings, engineering and even to educational questions.

Here we have a school department conducted at a higher expense per capita than is paid by most other cities of the state, and yet the results are unsatisfactory. Why?

Because a body of men who are not educators, some of whom are not even fairly educated, undertake to pass upon the most vital questions concerning the schools and withhold from the superintendent the authority necessary to enable him to perform the work for which the city pays him. Thus restricted in authority he stands more in the light of a clerk or messenger for the board than a superintendent who receives $3000 a year.

Will anybody be bold enough to say that Supt. Whitcomb will ask the removal of teachers whom he finds doing poor work? In his rounds of the schools, he should be able to see or to ascertain what teacher is doing good work and what the reverse. No doubt he knows this thoroughly but with such knowledge does anybody suppose that he makes any trouble for the teacher who is doing poor work?

Not at all. Supt. Whitcomb is no fool. He knows that if he asserted that any particular teacher was doing poor work, merely wasting the time of her pupils, in spite of the most convincing proofs to sustain such a charge, he would at once get into conflict with the sub-committee of the school involved. That member would naturally enlist the support of others and the superintendent would get such a rebuff that he would never again attempt anything of the kind.

Long ago has the superintendent learned the temper of the board on matters of this kind, and that is why he passes the poorest teacher in the schools with a pleasant "good morning!" and an outward indifference to the fact that she is not doing her work.

Under such conditions it would pay the city to call in outside experts to determine what schools are making progress and what are merely putting up a good bluff.

Impartial inspection by an experienced educator is what we want to lift our schools high above their present plane of efficiency and, therefore, to ensure better results.

A state inspector who knew not teachers or local officials would serve the purpose admirably.

We should like to know how the pupils of the Training school would compare with those of the Butler or the Lincoln schools and how the pupils of like grades in the Highland, the Pawtucket and the Varnum would compare in a written or oral examination on the same questions.

Under present conditions and modes of examination we have no way of determining these things with strict accuracy. No way of weeding out the poor teachers or else forcing them to do their work as it should be done.

Until we have a school board that will give the superintendent the necessary authority, and then hold him responsible for results, we need not expect any improvements in the work of our schools.

SEEN AND HEARD

Can you find words in your vocabulary to express your disgust for the bald-headed barber who says: "Your hair is getting a little stringy on top, you ought to try some of my hair vigor, or I make it myself and it possesses real merit. When I say it will grow hair on bald heads I mean just what I say. Will you try it?" Talk about justifiable homicide!

VISION OF SUMMER

Afar over the sage-fields hummed the bees. Flittered the birds about the sumac-trees. How fragrant was the air of that sweet day! How fair upon the slopes the shadows lay! The ranged and pillars rocks seemed to gleam. Levels of green land like some altar stair. Over the sheer verge the golden pumpkins hung. His heavy head, the rock-born aloe's dung. Its flower rays abroad like God's own banner. Deep in the hills, full many a corn cluster. The buttercup rejoiced. The pomegranate red. Bearded like an Indian cock its crested head. —Frederic Mistral.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

It will be learned immediately in Mr. William MacLeod Raime's very vivid story of "Wyoming" that an automobile shot out from a gash in the hills and that the girl driving it, an attractive school teacher newly arrived from the east, descended a formidable declivity, her heart in her throat, bonked forward intrepidly into a zone of splitting butlers, snatched up a young man with a curly head who was crouching low in the sagebrush and motored off with him without puncturing a tire. Said she: "Where are you hit?" Said he: "I just got a telegram from my ankle saying there was a cargo of lead arrived there unexpected." So much will show not only that the young man could converse picturesquely though in pain, but as well that automobilists can be quite as exciting in Wyoming as on the Vanderbilt track. "Down the gulch the 500 cattle thundered toward the motor car, which lay directly in their path. Helen turned, appreciated the danger and put the machine at its full speed." That is well toward the end. It is proof of tall measure—assurance that the action, the pressure of the story, is faithfully sustained.

Perhaps the most striking point about the remarkable journey described by Mr. R. F. Johnston in "From Peking to Mandalay" is the demonstration that a European who knows Chinese and the ways of the people can travel alone through the remotest and wildest parts of the empire without trouble. Mr. Johnston took with him a bull terrier and very little baggage; he required few attendants and put up with the native accommodations and food. He left the river Yangtze above the rapids, and struck into the country to the north with the purpose of making his way to the western border by routes no other British subject had taken. He must have travelled between 12 and fifteen hundred miles in this way, often through districts that no European had visited before.

To the geographer his observations must be of great value, though it may be regretted that he could not take more instruments with him; but this was in no sense a scientific expedition. The general reader will follow his course with interest, for though Mr. Johnston's progress from day to day may recall the "Anabasis," his short notes of people and conditions show a thorough knowledge of things Chinese and unusual fairness of mind in judging them.

He visited the monasteries of Mount Omei, which he describes very fully and digresses into an interesting account of the Chinese religion and of Buddhism in particular, to which he returns later when he meets the Tibetan Buddhists. His description of affairs on the border is very important and leads to interesting excursions into history and institutions. His intention had been to penetrate into Tibet, but at Tachienlu he found that border disturbances made it impossible to be turned southward, coming out at Bhimo and Mandalay.

Saw the Great Eucharistic Parade in London

Demonstration Was Held Up
Once by Great Crush—Pope's
Legate Accompanied by a
Bodyguard of English Peers

LONDON, Sept. 14.—A great procession of Catholic clergy, which brought the Eucharistic congress to an end, was held yesterday afternoon amid scenes such as the English churchmen who planned it had never anticipated. Cardinal Vannutelli, the pope's legate, walked at the head of the procession, wearing his scarlet robes and hat, but not carrying the host. He was accompanied by a bodyguard of English peers, of whom the Duke of Norfolk was the most prominent, and a concourse of cardinals, archbishops and bishops, who also were attired in ceremonial robes instead of vestments, which originally had been proposed they should wear.

No such throngs of people have been seen in London since Queen Victoria's funeral, if even then. The purpose of Archbishop Bourne, the head of the Westminster diocese, and his associates who arranged the program, had been to have the host carried through the streets in the rear of Westminster cathedral, so that the great body of Catholics who were unable to participate in any of the services within the cathedral should have an opportunity of joining in the Eucharistic observances and of seeing all the high ecclesiastics present in London on this memorable occasion.

The route of the procession was laid through the quiet streets adjacent to the cathedral, and but for the unexpected partisan strife, which a discussion of this ceremony brought on, it probably would have been solemnized quietly and in a reverent atmosphere. The great majority of those who attempted to witness the spectacle, however, apparently were attracted by curiosity and a small part were openly and demonstratively hostile. The Catholic element cheered heartily while the procession passed. Throughout the crowd, however, was also heard considerable "boozing," such as the English people use in theatres to express displeasure with a play.

Streets Early Jammed

The people began flocking toward the cathedral hours before the procession started. They came from all directions; from the West End in automobiles and carriages; from the East End in buses; they poured across the river by all the bridges which converge toward Westminster, and excursion trains brought many from the provinces.

Long before the hour set for the ceremony it was impossible to get near the line of march. All the streets leading in that direction were packed and the windows overlooking the procession, rented at high prices, were filled. Thousands of persons gathered on the roofs of the houses, from which there was a considerable display of the papal colors. The police had not expected such crowds and met with much opposition in their attempts to keep the parade route clear, which they hardly succeeded in doing, so that the papal legate and his followers had to make their way through a narrow lane, being frequently and unpleasantly jostled about. A number of persons fainted in the crush and were carried off in ambulances.

After the procession had re-entered the cathedral Cardinal Vannutelli appeared on the high balcony in gorgeous robes and elevated the host while the thousands of Catholics outside the building reverently knelt.

The last day of the congress opened with pontifical mass in the cathedral, which was celebrated by the papal legate and at which all the cardinals, archbishops and bishops and many others of the clergy assisted. The great edifice was crowded, the audience following with rapt attention the sermon of Cardinal Gibbons, who preached eloquently.

When the congregations crowded out of the edifice they found the crowd already was assembling for the procession. Large forces of police were assisted by some 15,000 Catholics, who had volunteered to line the route, but even this army of men was unable to prevent the participants in the parade from being shoulder'd by the curious. Before the procession started vespers were sung within the cathedral, at the conclusion of which the prelates passed down the nave, singing "Hail to Our Father," which was taken up by the congregation and the vast crowds without.

As the head of the procession emerged from the cathedral door a cheer went up which was repeated as cardinal after cardinal came slowly out, followed by the archbishops, bishops, minor prelates of the church and a great army of white surpliced men, singing hymns. Most of the prelates carried their vestments over their arms, but the legate was in full court dress, his scarlet robes and red hat lending distinction to his commanding figure. The bairn of the pope's representative, which was to have carried the host, answered continual blessings upon the people, who reverently bowed the knee.

On either side of Cardinal Vannutelli were his chief chaplains and the guard of honor, composed of Catholic peers. Following the legate came the members of the pontifical mission, the cardinals in their order, two by two, each with his train-bearer and chaplain; the archbishops and other prelates, including the representatives of absent bishops, the whole procession being upwards of a mile long and occupying nearly an hour to cover the route.

In the streets surrounding the cathedral the prelates passed through avenues of kneeling adherents of their faith. At one or two points farther away the processionists had practically to force a passage through the crowds. At one place, where several streets converge, the crush was so great that the spectators broke up the procession, but the police, stationed at this point in strong numbers, managed eventually to clear a narrow lane through which the papal legate and the others passed.

The crush here was frightful, and the police had to use heroic measures. Many women and not a few men fainted, and those who were found willfully pushing and jostling were arrested, only to be released later. Reserves were hurried to the scene, more to protect the crowd from itself than for any other purpose, for, although there was some isolated jeering, the people were more intent on sightseeing than anything else.

Those who had been crowded out of the cathedral were permitted to participate in the ceremony as the legate, robed in his vestments, appeared on the balcony outside the buildings and presented the Sacred Sacrament and pronounced the benediction. The assemblage then sang hymns and the members of the Catholic societies, with banners flying, marched through the streets to their halls and churches, some of them proceeding later to the stations, where the trains were waiting to take them back to the provincial centers. In the meantime the papal legate within the building pronounced the benediction, and the gates closed.

GREAT ANXIETY

Was Felt at Vatican Over Eucharistic Congress

ROME, Sept. 14.—Considerable anxiety has been felt at the vatican since the opening of the Eucharistic congress in London, with regard to the procession of the Blessed Sacrament in the streets, partly because it was feared that the procession might be prohibited and partly because, if it was not prohibited, it might be the cause of unpleasant incidents.

The pope, whose faith in British liberty is very great, has been optimistic all the while, and when it was learned that it had been definitely decided to abandon the procession on the original lines, he felt greatly disappointed, although, after deep thought, he concluded that perhaps this was the wisest thing, for fear the Catholic manifestation might create a misunderstanding as to the intentions and desires of the church of Rome.

The Corrispondenza Romana, a Catholic organ, publishes the following communication, evidently inspired by the vatican:

"The procession did not occur. Although regretting this omission, we wish to point out, and we appreciate, the liberty and respect which surrounded the Eucharistic congress under the shadow of the British flag. It has been said that the procession could not be allowed, as such processions are forbidden by a law passed in the sixteenth century. This is not a serious matter, as everybody knows that such a law, like similar other laws, became automatically obsolete through religious liberty granted later to British subjects.

"A few Protestant societies, aspiring to archaeological fame by examining past proscriptions, were merely the proverbial fly trying to drag the coach.

If the fly should be alone the anti-eucharistic coach of the sixteenth century would have never left the suns of religious persecutions. What moved the coach was the efficacious intervention of certain politicians, who depicted the procession as a manifestation disagreeable to the French, and thus hurtful to the interests of the Anglo-French entente, an act which would have sent them to prison in their sweet French country, and would have given umbrage to Paris.

For the same reason, the words of the pope to the French pilgrims on Monday were taken advantage of, of the enemies of the church pretending that the pontiff had praised British liberty for the purpose of punishing in the village the small tyrants of Paris. These same persons urged the British government not to be the tool of vatican tactics. The truth is that in Monday's impromptu speech the pope merely paraphrased the words of Archbishop Alix, the leader of the pilgrims who himself compared British liberty with what he termed French tyranny. Thus, the pope's words were distorted, first in Paris and then in London.

Nevertheless, the eucharistic congress remains a glorious memory for the Catholic world, as well as a proof of British liberty and hospitality. The omission of the procession will serve to show to the public mind which quarters come directly or indirectly all sectarian inspirations against the Catholic church.

tion for the spread of the gospel by the Roman Catholic church.

The American cardinal reviewed the possession in common by the church in his country with that in Great Britain of the same faith, the same civil and political freedom, the same language and literature. Similar constitutional government. Pointing to the opportunities in the world, including the commercial work of the British empire, he said:

"Should not God's ministers avail themselves of this providential agency by the propagation of the kingdom of Christ?"

"O my brethren of England what a vast field is open to your zeal and activity. May your missionary sons be endowed with the apostolic spirit of Augustine, Winfrid and Patrick. May they succeed in preaching the gospel wherever England establishes her laws. May they be as zealous in conducting souls as British statesmen are in acquiring territory. May they extend the Kingdom of Christ wherever England enlarges her temporal dominion; may they erect a house of prayer wherever she builds a fort, and may they determine to plant the cross, the symbol of salvation, side by side with the banner of St. George."

And may America engage in holy emulation with England in spreading the gospel of peace and the blessings of Christian civilization and may apostles spring forth in our country to carry the faith into every region wherever float the stars and stripes."

"I am sure that you will all agree with me that the sister Isle has done her duty in the cause of Catholic missionary work. Whatever have been the unhappy causes that have led to the emigration of so many of Ireland's sons and daughters from their native soil. Almighty God has made their exile subservient to higher and holier purposes. I can safely say that there is scarcely a city or town in the United States or Australia where the Catholic religion has not been proclaimed by priests and supported by laymen of Irish birth or parentage."

Founded Maryland Church

As another tie between the churches of the two countries Cardinal Gibbons pointed to the foundation of the mother church in the United States in Maryland by Englishmen seeking liberty of worship. He reviewed the history of the Catholic colony and the conservation of the first bishop of the United States in England in 1790.

Noting the assured strength of the Catholic church in England today as compared with her situation at the beginning of the 19th century, when Ireland, alone of all the nations of the north, remained loyal to the ancient creed, Cardinal Gibbons continued:

"All honor to the Catholic nobility, gentry and commonalty of Great Britain and Ireland, who, amid trials and persecutions, have preserved their faith unswayed; who regarded the name of Catholic more precious than any earthly civic title like the Hebrew law-giver who chose rather to be affiliated with the people of God than to have the pleasure of sin for a time, esteem the reprobation of Christ greater riches than the treasures of the Egyptians."

"When the bishops, clergy and people are united as you are there is no such word as fail; you are sure to succeed. You form a triple cord which cannot be easily broken."

"And why should you not cooperate with the bishops and clergy in advancing the cause of truth and righteousness? Do not you and they claim God as your common father? Are you not brothers and sisters of the same Christ? Are you not sanctified by the same holy spirit?"

Loyalty to Country

In recalling the glories of Great Britain's history, from the sixth to the 16th century, when the nation was loyal to Rome, the preacher urged:

"Take a loyal, personal interest in all that concerns the temporal and spiritual welfare of your cherished country. No one would be a drone in the social hive. Let no man be an indifferent spectator of the civil and political events occurring around him. When we are enrolled in the army of the Lord, our duty to our country is not diminished, but increased. As you all enjoy the protection of a strong and enlightened government, so should each man have a share in sustaining the burden of the commonwealth. Above all, take an abiding and vital interest in all that effects the welfare of your holy religion. Let the words of psalmist be your inspiring watchword: 'If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, let my right hand be forgotten. Let my tongue cleave to the roof of my mouth; if I do not remember thee, if I make not Jerusalem the beginning of my joy.'

After a feeling congratulation to Archbishop Bourne on the success of the eucharistic congress, Cardinal Gibbons closed with these words:

"May this spiritual banquet of the eucharist of which we partake increase in our hearts a greater love and devotion for Jesus Christ our saviour, and for his vicar upon earth, may it draw all bishops, priests and people more closely in the bonds of Christian fellowship and brotherhood; and may this love-feast be an earnest and foretaste of the heavenly banquet at which we shall recline with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob in the kingdom of heaven, to be forever inebriated with the plenty of God's house, and to drink of the fountain of delights."

STATE LEAGUE MET

A special meeting of the Massachusetts State Cricket League was held at the Revere House Saturday, President John Palmer in the chair. The Zions were represented by A. E. Schoon and the Mohawks by Alex E. Williams. Inasmuch as matters which had to do with the contest for the pennant were discussed there was a great deal of interest displayed. As is well known in cricket circles the Lawrence cricket club and the Mohawks have been running all up and down for the leadership with an advantage on the former side, this being given them through the action of the state executive awarding the Caribbean game which they had lost and had protested on account of the colored team playing a non-registered player. The delegates objected to the executives action and, by vote, ordered the game to be replayed in Boston on Sept. 26. Regarding the Zion Cricket club of Lowell it was decided that the last three games which they should have played should be forfeited to the opposing clubs.

By the result of the meeting the standing of the league makes the Mohawks in first position with one game to play being with Everett on Sept. 26th. It will be necessary for the local club either to win or have a draw while the Lawrence cricket club to have any chance at all must win from the Caribbeans. Should they lose the Mohawks will hold first place, the result of the Everett game not cutting and figure.

Messrs. A. E. Schoon of Zion and J. Stanwood of Needham were appointed umpires of the Lawrence Caribbean game.

Everett will make every effort to win the final game from Mohawks, while the local club intends to send down its strongest representatives.

TRADES COUNCIL

HELD IMPORTANT MEETING YES-TERDAY

The Trades and Labor council met yesterday afternoon and transacted considerable business of importance. One of the principal matters under discussion was the arrangements for the convention of the state branch of the American Federation of Labor which is to be held in this city the middle of next month.

The convention will open on Monday morning, October 12 and will continue for three or four days.

The business sessions will last from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and delegations from all over the state are expected. On Monday night, October 12, in the memorial hall, Hilliard and Bell will be on the visiting delegation and to this day night a banquet will be given, given Wednesday night will be a social gathering with labor rally, with prominent speakers present. A committee was appointed to wait on Governor Curtis, Gould Jr. with the object of getting him to address the rally on the enforcement of the eight-hour law. The Merrimack hotel will be made the headquarters of the delegates during the convention.

YACHTING BAND

Sixty-four members of the Merrimack Yacht Club and their wives will go to Italy, the French and the United States for a cruise this summer. The boat used will be the "Eduard" which was built and has won first prize in the Atlantic Yachting and Sailing Cup.

The party will consist of 12 couples, 12 single men, 12 single women, 12 boys and 12 girls. The party will sail from New York on Oct. 15 and return to Boston on Nov. 15.

The party will be entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. McLean, 100 Brattle street, in which house is situated.

CLARA TURNER

Under the management of Isa W. Jackson, the attraction at the Lowell Opera House, matines and evenings, during the week, Miss Clara Turner, soloist in "The Old Folks," will add new laurels to her list. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bell, who are to present her in "The Old Folks." She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bell, who are to present her in "The Old Folks." She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bell, who are to present her in "The Old Folks."

The visitors are the best to be seen nowhere. One is "Tale of the Indians," a new romance, showing the traits of the frontier.

Mrs. Marcella Courtney of Pawtucket street announces the engagement of her niece, Miss May G. Courtney, to Mr. Harry L. Timmons.

OLD-TIMER. Tues. Eve, Dracut Grange.

STAR THEATRE

Ned Fratzen, violinist, singer and headliner, this week. His act is highly entertaining, clean and wholesome.

The songs, "Dear Old East Side," sung by Harry Curry, and "If You Were Mine," by J. C. Bell, are sure to please.

Misses Athy, Benson and Pert and Misses Steadman, Horne, Woodeson, Glassford and McGinley will all have good parts. Mr. Charles Pitt promises a fine series of stage settings such as the Academy has seldom seen.

NIGHT EDITION GOVERNORS CONFER

Discuss Betterment of Conditions in New England

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—A conference of five of the six governors of the New England states, resembling in its major details the great conference of governors which convened in Washington several months ago at the invitation of President Roosevelt, but confining its efforts to the betterment of agricultural, industrial and forestry conditions in New England alone, was held in this city today. Besides Gov. Curtis Guild, Jr., of Massachusetts who arranged the meeting of state executives, there was present:

Gov. Charles M. Floyd, of New Hampshire; Gov. Fletcher D. Proctor of Vermont; Gov. Jas. N. Higgins of Rhode Island and Gov. Rollin S. Woodruff of Connecticut; Gov. W. T. Cobb of Maine was not in attendance because of the fact that the Maine state election took place today.

Today's meeting of governors was not arranged to take definite action on any of the measures or purposes which were the cause for its convening. It being understood that it was merely a preliminary gathering to consider the several objects and discuss the possibilities of their accomplishment.

The general question for discussion was the feasibility of arranging a conference of New England business interests of which the governor's conference should form a part.

It is believed that such a convention of the general interests of the six New England states would permit of a wider knowledge of the aims and means to be pursued.

Legislation looking to agricultural and industrial development; the preservation of New England forests, waterways and other natural resources; the protection of shell fish will be ultimately sought by uniform action in each of the states.

Representatives of various Massachusetts agricultural and industrial interests at whose solicitation the conference was arranged by Gov. Guild, participated in today's meeting. No representatives of the press were admitted but it had been arranged by Gov. Guild to give a statement of the accomplishments of the conference following its adjournment.

MAINE ELECTION

PORLTAND, Me., Sept. 14.—The people began rendering their verdict upon candidates and issues in the state election today with "beautiful" Indian summer weather as an incentive to go to the polls. They were given until 5 p.m. to deposit their ballots, and in the first hour or two "the carefully marked papers dropped into the boxes fast as autumn leaves fell."

Both parties this year had the benefit of popular and well-known men as ticket leaders. Bert M. Farnold of Portland, a large canner of corn, heading the republican ticket, while Obadiah Gardner of Rockland, known to every granger in the state because of his long term of service as the head of that organization, headed the democratic ticket.

The voters of the state were asked to fill 236 offices, including state, legislative, congressional and county. For these positions there were 731 candidates and with 20 cities, 425 towns and 74 plantations, the work of collecting and counting the ballots was a long and tedious one and it was not expected that the result would be definitely known until some hours after the close of the polls.

If good weather, well defined issues and popular candidates are an incentive for heavy voting there was every indication when the polls opened today that the result would show an unusually large number at the polls.

The heaviest vote in the history of the state was in 1858, when 145,834 voters deposited their ballots. Four years ago about 130,000 went to the polls and slightly more than that number two years ago. Politicians when they saw the good weather today freely predicted that all records would be broken in this year's election.

LARGE VOTE EXPECTED

DANGLOR, Me., Sept. 14.—Election day dawned bright and clear, and at ten o'clock there was every indication that a very large vote would be cast in the city which is elated by both large parties.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 14.—What appears to the authorities as a murder and suicide occurred early today on the Troy road, just outside of Albany. The dead body of Michael J. O'Leary, aged about 45, a saloon keeper of Albany, was found lying on the floor of the kitchen in the home of H. A. Wilkinson, his brother-in-law. Nearby in a chair was the dead body of Mrs. O'Leary. Both had bullet wounds in the head.

The police believe that following a quarrel O'Leary shot his wife and then killed himself.

FUNERALS

MORNING.—The funeral of Margaret Horne took place this afternoon at two o'clock from the home of her parents, Joseph and Mary, 25 Bassett street. The interment was in the Catholic cemetery under the direction of Higgins Brothers, undertakers.

MICHAEL J. DOWD

Will Be Toastmaster at M. T. I. Banquet

Ex-City Clerk Michael J. Dowd has been chosen toastmaster at the post-prandial exercises following the banquet, and ball of the Matthew Temperance Institute on Sept. 29th in the new hall on Dutton street. Mr. Dowd is a former president of the institute and an eloquent speaker and is looked upon as the right man for toastmaster for this important occasion. The event will be attended by several prominent speakers.

FOUND DEAD

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Wary of walking for work, Victor Trost and his wife, each 27 years of age, went to bed with deliberation in their apartment in Brooklyn, a rather quiet residential street with illuminating gas fixtures in the mouth of each victim.

SUPERIOR COURT

Judge Lawton Opened the Criminal Session This Morning

The superior criminal court opened this morning at the court house in Gorham street for the consideration of Lowell cases with Judge Frederick Lawton presiding, and District Attorney Higgins, Asst. District Attorney Wier and State Officer Byrne representing the prosecution.

All the jurors on the panel were in their seats at the opening hour, 10 o'clock, and of four who asked to be excused three were successful.

Peter H. Savage, the well-known undertaker, was one of the successful applicants.

Divine invocation was offered by Rev. Nathan W. Matthews.

VAN ZANT A SUICIDE

NASHUA, N. H., Sept. 14.—Charles L. Van Zant, aged 34 years, for several years a prominent baseball player, committed suicide about noon today at his home on Tyler street, in this city, by shooting himself through the heart. The weapon used was a .32 caliber revolver. No reason is assigned for the shooting, although it was stated by members of the family that since his return from Albany, N. Y., a few days ago, where he was a member of the Albany baseball team in the New York league, he had displayed signs of melancholia. Van Zant for several years had played professional ball. He was for several seasons with the New England league. He had also played with the St. Louis Nationals and with the St. Paul team. He is survived by his widow.

THE HOTEL CASES

On the docket for the present term of the superior criminal court the 2nd hotel liquor cases that went over from last term appear, and District Attorney Higgins is confident that they will all reach the jury before the term is finished.

When asked by a reporter of The Sun appear on the docket for this term.

MRS. CASEY ATTEMPTED SUICIDE

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Mrs. Vera Casey, formerly of Louisville and now the wife of a New York broker, who at present is said to be out of the city, was found in a critical condition today with a vial which had contained bichloride of mercury in her hand. Mrs. Casey was in the home of a friend in a fashionable section of the city. She was removed to a hospital where her condition improved. She is a prisoner at the hospital on a charge of attempted suicide. Mrs. Casey said she had a sister in Boston.

IT MEANS DEFEAT

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 14.—State Chairman Woodruff was drawn into an animated conversation with a large group of up-state delegates on the hotel veranda this morning. They were trying to convince the chairman that the voters up-state demanded the renomination of the governor. Mr. Woodruff rejoined that if Gov. Hughes were nominated it would mean this fall the greatest stamp of the republican party of the state had ever experienced.

LOOKS LIKE HUGHES

Anti-Hughes Men Admit He Will be Nominated

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 14.—That Gov. Charles E. Hughes will be renominated by the republican state convention as the result of tomorrow's balloting became all but a certainty today and even the anti-Hughes leaders, while publicly still determined to admit privately that it might even be done upon the first ballot. Opinions differ as to the effect of the reiteration this morning by authority of President Roosevelt of his belief that Gov. Hughes should be renominated. It was the event of the morning and, while not entirely unexpected, produced no small sensation. The general belief was that it was the last straw needed to turn the scales in the governor's favor.

Sigs were many during the morning that the opposition to the governor's renomination was falling to pieces for lack of a man upon whom it could unite. One of the most experienced of the leaders, generally regarded as anti-Hughes, but proclaiming himself merely as an observer, at noon said:

"It is only a question when the rush for the band wagon will begin and how general it will be? Hughes will be nominated and it begins to look as if it would be upon the first ballot."

Another, himself one of the leading candidates for the governorship, said: "The Oyster Bay statement will scare a lot of the fellows, and I guess the job is up."

When ex-Gov. Black was made acquainted with President Roosevelt's declaration, he said:

NEW HYDRANT

A hydrant to be used in case of fire was placed in position in Gorham street, near the corner of Congress street Saturday afternoon.

JUDGE PICKMAN

Tells of Work of Play-ground Congress

Park Commissioners John J. Pickman and Harvey B. Greene have returned from the playground congress held in New York last week, beginning Tuesday and ending Saturday. Park Superintendent Whittet also attended the congress or conference.

Speaking with a representative of The Sun today, Judge Pickman expressed himself as being much pleased with and interested in the conference. He said that the question of administering playgrounds was considered by delegates to the conference as being a very important one.

Mr. Pickman is satisfied that the playground is a very desirable feature of municipal life and playgrounds are especially beneficial in congested districts.

While Lowell has congested districts it is somewhat differently situated than older and larger cities. Lowell is within hailing distance of the country and the country around and about Lowell is a great, big playground.

"There was a big difference of opinion," said Mr. Pickman, "as to the administration of playgrounds. Some cities have supervisors who look after, manage and instruct. They have games and sports that are suited to kindergarten children and older ones.

"Lowell is not in a position to employ a supervisor at this time; her finances do not warrant it, but it is a question that will have to be considered in the very near future. We have placed gymnasium apparatus on the commons, and children use them at their own sweet will. We have been fortunate in not having any accidents of a serious nature. It is plain that the apparatus could be used to much better advantage under the guidance of an instructor."

"Some cities are given auxiliary aid. Societies and persons who are interested in the playground movement co-operate with cities and, in some instances, take it up as missionary work."

"The interest in the playground movement is intense the country over. That is one fact that was demonstrated at the conference and cities are spending large sums of money to improve their playgrounds. The playground is a very desirable adjunct to par week, but it would not favor a restraint on the children. They should be allowed a generous freedom and should be given an opportunity to work off their surplus energy in their own way."

IN POLICE COURT

Varied List of Offenders -- Many Victims of Drink

That the "city that does things" is getting bigger, busier and last but not least better, was evidenced this morning when the Monday morning session of police court lasted but a trifle over half an hour. There was quite a number of offenders, and the cases were few, women occupied seats in front of the enclosure, but there was not the same sized aggregation that has frequented the old Market street house on a Monday morning.

The case of Henry L. Bent and William H. Quilman, charged with manslaughter, was called for this morning, but was dismissed. Bent is a mormon, and Quilman a conductor on the employ of the Boston & Maine road, and were on the car which an overcoat which later resulted in the death of Mary Gannon in Gorham street several weeks ago. It was reported that the grand jury had considered the case and returned a "no" bill, and Judge Hadley dismissed the case.

Squabble on Car

Herbert Perkins and James M. Wotton after viewing the automobile races last Monday got hilarious and started out to do the town in brown. They boarded an electric car and had a little argument with the conductor over the payment of fares, and the fellow who pulls the register card ordered them to leave the car. They refused to get off at an when conductor, a certain Franklin C. Keele, he notified the officer that he wanted Perkins removed from the car. Fatrolman Keele took Perkins off the car, but had proceeded but a short distance when Wotton started in to batter the officer.

Both entered pleas of guilty, and Perkins was placed on probation, while Wotton was fined $5 for assault upon another, and the case of drunkenness was filed.

Michael Gilday, when arrested thought he would fool the police by giving the name of Thomas Brady, but the eagle eye of one of the bluecoats in attendance at the police station recognized Michael, and when he appeared in court this morning a new complaint was made out. Gilday is on parole from the state farm, and will be returned this afternoon.

Thomas J. Kelley, who at first gave the name of John O'Brien, was fined $5, it being his second offense. James Dandy and Joseph Levesque, second offenders, were also fined $5.

John J. Cummings, a third offender, will spend the next few months at the state farm.

Edward J. Kirkpatrick and his better half, Annie A., were fined $5 each, as was Mary Giron.

There were four $2 drunks and nine first offenders were released.

William T. Price, a third offender, was given a suspended sentence of three months in jail and placed in the custody of the probation officer for one year.

Thomas Buoy, a third offender, is a low an innocent man suffer he came back and gave himself up.

This act appealed to the authorities and they were content to let him off on probation. All that was known of him was what he had told the police. He said his home was in Charlestown, Mass., that he travelled all over the country and that he was arrested but once, in San Francisco.

District Attorney Higgins had recommended probation, when he turned to Wilson who was in the dock, and said: "Were you ever arrested before?" "Do you insist on my past record?" asked Wilson.

"Yes," said the district attorney, in surprise.

"Well, I refuse to answer," said Wilson.

He was then sentenced to the house of correction for eight months. Wilson then asked the court to change the sentence to the Lowell jail, but Judge Lawton declined to grant his request. Several local drunk and vagrancy cases were placed on probation.

Peter Neault, a hen thief, was sent to the Massachusetts reformatory.

Edward S. Flynn and Herbert J. Scobie, juveniles, indicted for breaking and entering, were placed on probation.

Albert Bourassa pleaded guilty of rape and was sentenced to the house of correction.

Matthew J. Conley, drunkenness, received four months in jail.

The First Trial

The first case to go to trial was an appeal case of Cornelius Coleman, charged with non-support of his wife, and it was reached shortly before noon. The case was heard in police court some time. Mrs. Coleman said that her husband had contributed nothing towards her support for two years. " Didn't you order me out of the house the day I left?" asked Coleman. "I certainly did, and I had good reason," was the answer.

Coleman testified that he only received $7.50 a week and that he gave her $4 a week for board. "I have given my wife nothing but my board for 12 years; that's all she asked for. I haven't seen her since June."

As this was the first case to be tried, Judge Lawton in his charge spoke somewhat at length to the jury on the general rules and suggestions in relation to their duties on the panel. His Honor in a comprehensive manner explained the rights of defendants brought before the court, and told the story of the jurymen who once when asked why he had voted a defendant guilty, replied: "Of course he's guilty. Didn't the grand jury indict him? What's he here for if he isn't guilty?" His Honor explained the grand jury procedure and also explained a defendant's right to decline to testify. He also spoke at length on reasonable doubt, circumstantial evidence and disagreements.

Judge Lawton in his suggestions to the jury occupied half an hour and clearly and exhaustively explained the many features and obligations of jury duty and was listened to most attentively.

The jury retired shortly before one o'clock and Judge Lawton dismissed the others until 2 o'clock.

The Jury List

The jury list is as follows:

Henry W. Ames, Wilmington, news dealer; William Barrow, Maynard, dressender-tender; Eugene L. Blount, Everett, machinist; George C. Canney, Dracut, clerk; William T. Card, Everett, clerk; William Connolly, Maynard, janitor; William H. Curtis, Woburn, real estate; Frank J. Danahy, Lowell, plumber; James S. Davison, Cambridge, plumber; Nicholas J. Flint, Woburn, shoemaker; Joseph Foley, Wilmington, farmer; R. Currie Groves, Cambridge, carpenter.

A Bad Break

George M. Wilson, charged with breaking and entering a railroad car and larceny made one bad break that cost him eight months' liberty.

Wilson, who is a stranger in this court, broke into a car on the N. Y. N. and H. road and then jumped to Connecticut. While in Connecticut he heard that another man had been arrested for the job and rather than al-

AFTERNOON SESSION.

At the opening of the afternoon session District Attorney Higgins found the list cleared up except those cases that are to have trials. Judge Lawton then retired to his room until 2 o'clock, when the jury in the case of Cornelius Coleman came in with a verdict of guilty. John Melles pleaded guilty of assault and battery and was fined $15.

PRICE OF FISH

Fixed by A. Booth & Co. Says Polakow

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—A statement made by Louis M. Polakow, publisher of a fish trade journal, was made the basis yesterday of a report that federal investigation might be made of the affairs of A. Booth & Co., who went into the hands of a receiver last week. Polakow declared that the prices of fish to dealers throughout the country were dictated by the Booth company and that he was ready to give the district attorney details concerning daily meetings of representatives of A. Booth & Co. and certain supposedly independent fish houses which were in reality controlled by the Booth company. He said for the purpose of fixing prices.

Assistant District Attorney Shire admitted today that the department of justice was watching developments in this direction but said that he was not in position to say much about the case. "If reports are true that meetings were held to fix the prices of fish," he said, "and if the books of the company reveal an illegal combination the government will take full cognizance of the case when the time arrives."

FORMER DRACUT MAN

Is Wanted for the Shooting of Elon Stickney of Newport, N.H.

NEWPORT, N. H., Sept. 14.—Sheriff King and a posse of over 100 men are hunting the woods in this vicinity for Edward Cunningham, who seriously wounded Elon Stickney Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Seavey after a vain effort to force his attentions upon their 17-year-old daughter, Miss Sarah Seavey.

Cunningham met the girl Saturday noon while she was on the way to the railroad station with a friend, Mrs. William Belknap, and endeavored to persuade her to close with him. This she refused to do. He told her then that she would go with him or with nobody, and started to pull his revolver. The girl screamed for help and her brother-in-law, who works in the Granite state mills nearby, heard the cries and ran to their assistance.

His version of the affair is that Cunningham had hold of the girl's wrists and she was screaming for help. When he saw the brother-in-law, Cunningham let go and pulled his revolver and pointed it at the girl as she turned to flee from him, but the gun failed to go off. By this time a number of men were coming on the scene and Cunningham fled to the woods.

Sheriff King and a posse of 100 men have kept up a continuous search since Sunday night. He evidently knows the country well and had a secure hiding place, as from the time that he saw Cunningham near the freight sheds but a thorough search failed to show any signs of his being there.

Last Saturday night Cunningham returned to the Seavey home at 8 o'clock with the intention, it is believed, of killing the girl. He knocked at the back door and the girl's mother answered the knock. He asked for the daughter, and before she could answer he pulled her into the back yard and at the same time tried to get his gun out of his hip pocket, but Mrs. Seavey succeeded in preventing this.

She screamed for help and Elon Stickney, who was on the front steps, ran to her assistance. He had a .32-calibre rifle and he and Cunningham had a duel with their respective weapons, with the windup in favor of Cunningham, as Stickney received a bad stomach wound, and late last night was in a serious condition.

That Cunningham does not intend to give up until he gets some other member of the family is evident, for early yesterday morning a man who answers his description asked for water at a house which is only about a quarter of a mile from the Seavey home. Lovell George gave it to him, but as he did not know him he thought it was one of the man-hunters.

Cunningham has a polyp record in Massachusetts that is hard to beat. He served 32 years in the Charlestown prison for killing an old man by the name of Baxter who lived in Dawson, Mass., about 15 years ago. He was convicted of manslaughter.

About five years ago he entered the home of his parents in Parker avenue, Dracut, and threatened to kill them all, including his sister and brother. He filled the walls full of bullet holes. For this he served 10 months in the Lowell jail.

He is about 42 years old and a spinner by trade. He worked in the Granite State mills in this town for about a year until last spring, when he was forced to leave town by the Seavey girl's father, who had for a long time tried to break up the attachment between the girl and Cunningham.

Popular St. R. R. Foreman Died Suddenly

The many friends of Michael E. O'Donnell for many years foreman of construction for the Boston & Northern street railroad died very suddenly of heart disease, about 5 o'clock, last evening at his home, 148 Fort Hill avenue. He leaves a widow, two sons and three daughters, one brother and two sisters in Ireland. The deceased was an expert on street railway construction and was held in high esteem both by his employers and his fellow workmen. Personally he was honest, amiable and generous to a fault, and leaves a large circle of friends to mourn his loss.

REV. MR. KENNGOTT

Lectured on the School and the Church

At the First Trinitarian Congregational church, Sunday night, the pastor, Rev. George F. Kenngott, preached on "The School and the Church." He found his inspiration in Malachi 2, 12: the two words, "Master" and "Scholar," "He that awaketh" and "He that answereth." Mr. Kenngott said in part:

"The business of the master, the teacher, the preacher, the professor, is to wake up; and the business of the scholar is to answer to the awakening influence.

"It is always well for us to remember that Harvard university was founded by clergymen, and that nearly all of the long line of colleges were founded by church interests. And still, through its ministry and its members, the church must have an active interest in the training of the children and the youth in schools and colleges.

"There cannot be any divorce of culture and religion, for there is no culture that does not take into consideration the training of the soul. He is a cultured and an educated man, who has trained himself to observe high ethical principles, who has developed body, mind and soul, all together. 'We Protestants cannot overestimate the power there is in the best parochial school.' The Protestant church must take hold of the best there is in the parochial school, and supplement the work of the public school. The worst man in any community, is the man who has all the teaching of the highest university, and has not had it balanced by the development of his religious nature. More and more, the church will supplement the instruction of the public school by instruction of its own. The Sunday school, in a brief half-hour, can do but little."

GRAVES MAY DIE E. GERRY BROWN

Surgeons Fear His Skull is Fractured

BEDFORD, N. H., Sept. 14.—Robert Graves of the local board of selectmen was notified yesterday that an assault had been committed upon John E. Graves, a resident of the Shirley hill district, occupying the McDougal place, and that the man's condition was serious.

Sheriff A. Robert Buntion, accompanied by Drs. Charles Weaver and Maurice Stark, went to the home of Graves, where they found him unconscious and bleeding from the ears and mouth. An ugly wound in his head was sewed up, after which the man was taken to the hospital at Grasmere. He regained consciousness yesterday afternoon.

His story is that at 11:30 o'clock Saturday night William Conway, accompanied by Kelcie Oten and Alvio Bollis, the two latter negroes, and all three employees of a lumber camp in the Chestnut hill district, came to his house.

Graves says that the three men had been drinking and that they were inclined to make trouble. Finally Oten assaulted him, and he knew nothing more until he became conscious under the surgeon's care.

Sheriff Fred K. Ramsey of Manchester came here, and in company with Sheriff Buntion went to the lumber camp and arrested the three men. They also detained N. J. Kelley, Belmar and Napoleon Demars, who are living at Graves' home, as witnesses.

The attending surgeons fear that it may develop that Graves has a fractured skull.

GAMBLING RAID

BIG SEIZURE WAS MADE AT ATLANTIC CITY.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 14.—Acting under instructions from Prosecutor Goldenberg, representing Gov. Fort, 25 detectives, headed by County Detective Balzel, yesterday raided several of the largest negro gambling houses in the city, capturing 60 persons.

The raids were made over the head of Chief of Police Woodruff and the city authorities, who knew nothing of the roundup until an order was sent to city hall for the police patrol.

The prosecutor said his detectives had been unable to gain access to any of the large gambling places reported to be running and frequented by white persons. The roundup was made to further carry out Gov. Fort's orders to clean up Atlantic City.

TAFT'S TOUR

WILL BEGIN ON WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 23

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 14.—William H. Taft's first campaigning tour will begin Wednesday, September 23, if the candidate's present desires are observed. Mr. Taft yesterday indicated that he would much like to talk with National Chairman Hitchcock after Mr. Hitchcock has conferred in Chicago on Monday with Sen. Dixon and the Western managers concerning the proposed itinerary.

The arrangements to have the National league of republican clubs hold a rally in Cincinnati on September 22 was made known to Mr. Taft today. After the meeting of September 22 it is regarded as not unlikely that Mr. Taft will accept the invitation he has received from the Kentucky Bankers' association and address them at Lexington on September 23. Mr. Taft has expressed a desire to speak in Tennessee and it is pointed out here that he could extend the Kentucky trip to Nashville and Chattanooga and from there go to St. Louis and Kansas City, and thence into other middle-west states.

Mr. and Mrs. Taft attended Christ church yesterday and listened to services conducted by Rev. Mr. Knowlton, pastor.

Delegates Plan War on Tuberculosis

Woman Died of Fall From Car

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—By the end of this week hundreds of delegates from every country on the globe will have arrived to attend the international congress on tuberculosis, which opens Monday, Sept. 21. All sessions of the three weeks' congress will be held in the new national museum building. From every state in the Union, enough delegates will be present to fill a volume with a list of their names.

Even California, the farthest state, is sending 100 members, and Virginia will have 300 men and women in attendance. The burden of the preliminary work falls on Dr. John S. Fulton and Dr. Henry G. Byer. The former is secretary general and Dr. Byer is chairman of the exhibition committee. The great task of presenting the thousands of exhibits from a thousand points, in a scientific and interesting manner, has been keeping Dr. Byer busy. There are many interesting models of buildings, sanatoria, photographs, instruments and every conceivable object used in combating tuberculosis.

The international congress on tuberculosis is really seven congresses rolled into one, for there are seven sections. Special days have been set aside for various organizations and unorganized laymen to see into the workings of the great gathering. The entire second floor of the museum will be used for exhibition purposes and the exhibit will be divided into three parts, foreign, U. S. government and state exhibits. The most complete of the foreign exhibits are those from Germany and Switzerland.

The exhibit of the U. S. government will be the largest. To show exactly what the ravages of consumption mean, an electric flashlight will operate continuously, giving a flash for every death from consumption; that is, it will operate in accordance with figures which have been prepared on the subject.

PRINCE VON BUELLOW
Says Germany Will Not Pick Fight With England

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The Standard this morning prints a long interview with Prince Von Buelow, the German chancellor, at Nordernay.

With reference to British apprehensions in the matter of German naval aggression, the chancellor thinks it would be more natural and excusable if the Germans were apprehensive of being attacked. Prince Von Buelow says:

"I can assure you that nobody of any sense or influence in Germany dreams of picking a quarrel with England; much less is there any such insane idea as that of invading England. But for us Germans there are far more tangible reasons for apprehension through our exposed geographical position, let alone our dark historical background."

"So far as the idea of Germany's power being a menace to other countries is concerned, Germany, as you well know, is only one of the great powers which has waged no war during the last thirty-seven years."

DEER PARK, Md., Sept. 14.—William J. Bryan today put his stamp of disapproval on Sunday political speeches. Without his knowledge the residents around Mountain Lake Park were notified to assemble there at 3 o'clock yesterday to hear him talk. While Mr. Bryan, at Deer Park was protesting to a local committee that he would make no speech. He finally was prevailed upon to take the three-mile drive and shake hands with those in the assemblage, with the understanding that he should not speak.

Miss Lyng Presented a Pretty Locket and Chain

The many friends of Miss Katherine Lyng gathered at her home, 12 Cambridge Place, last evening, to welcome her home after spending a long vacation in Connecticut. Her friends presented her a beautiful locket and chain, the speech being made by Joseph Higgins. Refreshments were served, and her friends left at a late hour, wishing her many happy returns.

STABBED TO DEATH

Girl Attacked at Close of Sunday School Service

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 14.—A special to the Observer from Newton says that Miss Willie Bullinger, 19 years old, was stabbed to death yesterday by Lon Rader, aged 21.

The girl was at the organ playing the closing hymn at Sunday school when Rader sprang across several benches and with his pocket knife stabbed her in the neck and breast. She died almost instantly. Rader was arrested and is now in the Newton jail. Some months ago he was committed to the state insane asylum and in his ravings often mentioned Miss Bullinger's name. Recently he was discharged as cured. The deed was probably prompted by unrequited love.

BOSTON, Sept. 14.—Victor Delamerre, who for some years has conducted a cobblers shop on Neponset Avenue, Neponset, left for New York en route to England yesterday. He is accompanied by his wife and two sons, and is on his way to the land of his ancestors to claim the $200,000 which is his portion of the estate of his uncle, the late Edward Farry of Northamptonshire.

Some months ago Delamerre was notified of his rich relative's death and was requested to come to England and prove his right to a share of the fortune. His means would not allow him to take the trip, but finally a solicitor in England agreed to advance the necessary funds.

Mr. Delamerre is 32 years of age and has lived in Neponset for 13 years. He was formerly an estimator of the New Haven road.

DRACUT

The committee of the Parker Avenue School Alumni association which was appointed to draw up the conditions and also to select the design for the medal which is to be given each year to the brightest scholar in the graduating class of the school, have decided upon the following rules:

1. This medal is to be presented to the pupil having the highest standing in scholarship and deportment in the highest grade of the Parker Avenue school.

2. The pupil shall have been registered at the beginning of the school year.

3. The decision of awarding the medal shall be left to the teacher of the highest grade; this decision not to be final, but left to a committee appointed by the Parker Avenue School Alumni association.

4. All cases of unnecessary absence and tardiness shall disqualify a pupil trying for the medal. Such cases to be acted upon by the aforesaid teacher and committee.

5. The medal is to be of gold and will be suitably inscribed, having on it the name of the donors; underneath which will be the words: "Presented to—giving the winner's name—for Excellence in Scholarship and Deportment."

BILLERICA NEWS*Twombly Gives Statement of Horse Deal

The special town meeting which is to be held for the purpose of discussing the payment of the bill for two horses purchased by Edgar F. Twombly, the former highway surveyor, has resulted in Mr. Twombly issuing a statement of the case.

"Among several places I looked at a shipment of horses at Wheeler, McElveen & Co., I examined several pairs, and in my judgment selected the two best horses out of two pairs included in this shipment. Those selected were, in my opinion, better suited for town work than either pair would have been, and made a more valuable pair than either of the existing pairs."

"Mr. Wheeler set $700 as a bottom price for the new pair selected by me. In the exchange he made an allowance of $110 for the old horses owned by the town; these were afterwards sold by auction for $90. The white mare brought $55, and the bay mare $34. The amount, therefore, for which Wheeler, McElveen & Co., were getting in exchange for the new pair of horses would be the latter sum of $340, added to $55, the amount brought by the purchase price to the town of $365.

"Before purchasing the horses I was informed of the cost prices of the several pairs included in the shipment examined. They were all sent to Wheeler, McElveen & Co., by a western shipper and made up in large consignment. The bay mare brought was included in a pair consigned at $575; she was worth more than $257.50, half this amount, as she was best mare in the pair."

"The bay horse bought was included in a pair consigned at $575.50; he was worth more than $288.75, this amount, as he was the best horse in his pair. The cost price of the horses bought in the west by the shipper to Wheeler, McElveen, was therefore the lowest calculation, $575.25, but there should be added to this cost price in the Boston market the expense of feeding, freight, and selling charges, which should be roughly calculated at $40 a horse, or $80 for the pair. Adding this last amount of $80 to the lowest western cost price of $575.25, the horses stood in Boston at approximately a cost price of $556.25. The difference between this amount and the purchase price to the town of $681 as above figured shows a bonus of $22.50, which is made by the seller."

FIRE ON HOWARD STREET

The alarm from box 63 at 5:57 Sunday afternoon was for a small fire in a house in Howard street. It started in a clothes closet and worked its way to the roof. The damage was not very great.

PLAISTOW NOTES*Echoes of the Exercises of Saturday

The town of Plaistow Saturday looked like a blaze of glory. Every house in the pleasant little village was decorated with hunting and flags, the greater part of the decorating being the handwork of Chas. E. Young of this city.

Mr. A. G. Pollard was the biggest man in New Hampshire Saturday, according to the opinion of the residents of Plaistow.

Two special carloads of friends of Mr. Pollard in this city went to Plaistow and were received by the townspeople. Cheering by the people of Plaistow signified a hearty welcome. One of the first persons to meet the Lowell people was Isaac Sternberg, who was busy attending to the many details connected with the celebration. "Stern" was here, there and everywhere and at the present time is one of the most popular residents of the town. He took special pains to take care of the newspaper men.

Plaistow is fortunate in having one of the finest town halls in New Hampshire. The building is of brick and has a commodious assembly hall. This hall was most beautifully decorated with floral pieces and presented a very charming appearance. A reception lunch was served in the hall to invited guests, about four hundred being present.

Mr. Pollard's address in presenting the beautiful gift to the town was delivered in the style of a veteran orator. He is in reality the father of the town of Plaistow, for on all sides can be seen the gifts made by him to the town from time to time. Strange as it may seem the first work ever performed by Mr. Pollard was in a brickyard in Plaistow at the magnificent salary of ten cents per day. His rise in the world, however, has been very rapid; for today he is the merchant prince of Lowell.

Solon W. Stevens fairly outdone himself in his oration.

The monument is a substantial and beautiful piece of work and reflects much credit on the designer. Mr. Tarr, the landscape gardener, showed his skill in the grading of the grounds. Messrs. Moshon and Neehan set the monument on a foundation where it will stand for ages, so substantially has the work been done. The bronze tablets on the four sides of the monument are in keeping with the other work. They were made by the T. P. Medana & Sons Co. of Boston.

This morning the parochial school opened its doors to one of the largest attendances ever registered at the school. Prior to attending school the children attended mass in the church at 8 o'clock. After mass the children marched in double file to the school and took their places in their respective rooms and were assigned to their new classes.

HON. BUTLER AMES

Has Invented a Flying Machine of Aeroplane Style

It Has Some Original Points That
Have Not Been Utilized in Aerial Navigation — First Flight
Soon to Be Made

The man who would beat Butler Ames for congress at the present writing will have to go some. The inventive section of the congressman's mind has been working overtime and after having perfected things to increase the speed of automobiles that he made himself he is now about to take wings and fly away either to Washington to look down on the scene of his arduous labors or to the highest point in Bretton Woods where he but recently shook the hay fever.

The congressman's latest invention is an aeroplane, a flying machine. His first soap will be from Salem, N. H., and if the machine bears the inventor above the earth, the congressman will not only have established a new discovery in flying machines, but will have discovered a new law in physics as well.

Now what show on earth or in the sky has the ordinary man with Butler Ames, a man who can scamper across the earth at the rate of 50 miles an hour, and by through the air at a rate scarcely exceeded by the eagle? It's no fair's for the doughty congressman to be building all these things just to perpetuate himself in office.

It does seem the Dutch as how fast things are going these days, and if Charlie Gildden and the rest of the aeroplane flyers would live long and peacefully they had better keep off the air line between Lowell and Washington for Butler Ames allows that if his machine works all right he will fly to and from Washington every day. Getting an early breakfast in Lowell and arriving in Washington in time for the opening of congress will be another jewel for the crowned head of evolution.

The ubiquity of the congressman will be the startling feature of his campaign and those who fail to read of his flying machine will wonder by what miracle the man moves so fast.

The inventive genius of the young congressman comes to him in good faith and well modified. His grandfather had it, his uncle Paul Butler has it, and there you are. Paul Butler has made important inventions that are in use in the cartridge shops.

Last winter Congressman Ames set

The inventive genius of the young congressman comes to him in good faith and well modified. His grandfather had it, his uncle Paul Butler has it, and there you are. Paul Butler has made important inventions that are in use in the cartridge shops.

Last winter Congressman Ames set up a workshop in Washington, and lots of times when the society columns had the congressman at pink teas, he was boring holes and twisting wire in his workshop. He believed that the "heavier than air" machine would prove practical. He worked out a new plan, based upon the fact that two cards of equal size and weight, released at a given point in the air, would travel different distances provided that one was started at an angle that allowed it to complete regular revolutions, while the other fell dead or words to that effect.

Whatever that all means we are not prepared to state but that was the bane of Butler's mind was swinging on when he conceived the flying machine thought and working upon that principle he planned a machine that should have two wings composed of a series of hoops upon a shaft, each one covered with oiled muslin.

Mr. Ames drew up his plans and applied for a patent. The wise guys in the patent office looked them over, shrugged their shoulders, grinned and told the congressman to make a noise like a hoop and roll away, but the congressman allowed that if he made a noise to resemble anything it would be the noise of wings. The patent office said that the theory of the wings was impracticable.

Nothing daunted the young inventor shouldered the sarcasm and discouragement of patent office fossils and went his way and not many days after leaving the patent office he was in touch with the United States navy. He was given facilities to try out his work, and rigged up a set of the wings. They were given a secret trial and they worked all right.

A navy tug was placed at the disposal of the congressman and he put out in the bay with a set of the wings fastened to the flagpole. It was desired to learn whether they would rise under the proper conditions. Again the experiment was a success.

There still remained the problem of whether they would carry a machine into the air bearing the weight of a gasoline engine and one or more men.

Ames returned to Lowell and began the actual construction of the invention. The several parts were all "assembled" several days ago, and orders given to set up the machine.

It was originally intended to make the first ascent last week, and the race track at Salem Depot, N. H., was engaged for the purpose. In setting up the machine, however, the full number of wires were not inserted, and it was necessary to do the work again. It will be ready for a trip within a short time.

And now may we inquire why not make the ascent from the Lowell boulevard?

RIVER CHOKED WITH FILTH.

The lower part of the Concord river is probably the dirtiest in the United States. It is choked with filth, and when the water runs low the stench is very annoying. The question of whether the river is to remain in this condition indefinitely or be dredged out is one that should engage the attention of the board of health. In its present state of stagnation the river must give rise to diseases of various kinds.

GLOOMY OUTLOOK FOR HUGHES.

So far as any test has been made in New York state, it seems to be unfavorable to the renomination of Governor Hughes, despite the mandate of the president in the interest of his man, Taft. The democrats of New York are getting ready to take over the state by electing a democratic governor and carrying the state for Bryan. The republicans resent Roosevelt's interference in an effort to force Hughes' nomination.

MR. POLLARD'S GIFT TO PLAISTOW.

It must have been a great source of pleasure to Mr. A. G. Pollard to present to his native town of Plaistow, N. H., a stately shaft in memory of the men of that town who fought for the union cause. Where is the man of patriotic instincts who would not like to do something of this kind for his native place, and yet, strange to say, there are thousands of men possessed of the means who have never shown any patriotic regard for the town or city of their birth. This stately shaft dedicated to the soldier heroes of Plaistow will equally commemorate the name, the liberality and the patriotism of the donor, Mr. Pollard.

IMPARTIAL SCHOOL INSPECTION NEEDED.

The park department is the one municipal department in which no important step forward is taken without the advice of an experienced expert, a landscape gardener, an expert on the city beautiful or some other authority upon the work in hand.

It is very evident that in this way whatever is undertaken will at least be in the right direction.

Now, why not adopt this same method in other departments?

How often have councilmen and aldermen decided upon matters on which they were entirely ignorant?

Would it not pay in such cases to call in an expert to pass upon matters on which the average official is incompetent to decide? This applies to street paving, to the quality of material, public buildings, engineering and even to educational questions.

Here we have a school department conducted at a higher expense per capita than is paid by most other cities of the state, and yet the results are unsatisfactory. Why?

Because a body of men who are not educators, some of whom are not even fairly educated, undertake to pass upon the most vital questions concerning the schools and withhold from the superintendent the authority necessary to enable him to perform the work for which the city pays him. Thus restricted in authority he stands more in the light of a clerk or messenger for the board than a superintendent who receives $3000 a year.

Will anybody be bold enough to say that Supt. Whitecomb will ask the removal of teachers whom he finds doing poor work? In his rounds of the schools, he should be able to see or to ascertain what teacher is doing good work and what the reverse. No doubt he knows this thoroughly but with such knowledge does anybody suppose that he makes any trouble for the teacher who is doing poor work?

Not at all. Supt. Whitecomb is no fool. He knows that if he asserted that any particular teacher was doing poor work, merely wasting the time of her pupils; in spite of the most convincing proofs to sustain such a charge, he would at once get into conflict with the sub-committee of the school involved. That member would naturally enlist the support of others and the superintendent would get such a rebuff that he would never again attempt anything of the kind.

Long ago has the superintendent learned the temper of the board on matters of this kind, and that is why he passes the poorest teacher in the schools with a pleasant "good morning!" and an outward indifference to the fact that she is not doing her work.

Under such conditions it would pay the city to call in outside experts to determine what schools are making progress and what are merely putting up a good bluff.

Impartial inspection by an experienced educator is what we want to lift our schools high above their present plane of efficiency and, therefore, to ensure better results.

A state inspector who knew not teachers or local officials would serve the purpose admirably.

We should like to know how the pupils of the Training school would compare with those of the Butler or the Lincoln schools and how the pupils of like grades in the Highland, the Pawtucket and the Varnum would compare in a written or oral examination on the same questions.

Under present conditions and modes of examination we have no way of determining these things with strict accuracy. No way of weeding out the poor teachers or else forcing them to do their work as it should be done.

Until we have a school board that will give the superintendent the necessary authority, and then hold him responsible for results, we need not expect any improvements in the work of our schools.

SEEN AND HEARD

Can you find words in your vocabulary to express your disgust for the bald-headed barber who says: "Your hair is getting a little graying, on top, you ought to try some of my hair tonic. I make it myself and it possesses real merit. When I say it will grow hair on bald heads I mean just that I say, 'Will you try it?' Talk about justifiable homicide!"

VISION OF SUMMER

Afar over the sage-fields hummed the bees. Fluttered the birds about the sumac-trees. How lucid was the air of that sweet day! How fair upon the slopes the shal-low's hay! The ringed and pillar'd rocks seemed to uphear Levels of green land, like some altar-stair. O'er the sheer verge the golden pump-kin hung His heavy head, the rock-born slopes hung Its flowered rays abroad like God's own luster, Deep in the dells, full many a coral cluster. The raspberry reopened. The pomegranate red Reared like an Indian cock its crested head —Frederic Mistral.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

It will be learned immediately in Mr. William MacLeod Rainie's very vivid story of "Wyoming" that "an automobile shot out from a gash in the Edis" and that the girl driving it, an attractive school teacher newly arrived from the east, descended a formidable declivity, her heart in her throat, honked forward intrepidly into a zone of spitting bullets, snatched up a young man with a curly head who was crouching low in the sagebrush and motored off with him without puncturing a tire. Said she: "Where are you hit?" Said he: "I just got a telegram from my ankle saying there was a cargo of lead arrived there unexpected." So much will show not only that the young man could converse picturesquely though in pain, but as well that automobilong can be quite as exciting in Wyoming as on the Vanderbilt track. "Down the gulch the 500 cattle thundered toward the motor car, which lay directly in their path. Helen turned, appreciated the danger and put the machine at its full speed." That will be toward the end. It is proof of full measure—assurance that the action, the pressure of the story, is faithfully sustained.

Perhaps the most striking point about the remarkable journey described by Mr. R. F. Johnston in "From Peking to Mandalay" is the demonstration that a European who knows Chinese and the ways of the people can travel alone through the remotest and wildest parts of the empire without trouble. Mr. Johnston took with him a bull terrier and very little baggage; he required few attendants and put up with the native accommodations and food. He left the river Yangtze above the rapids and struck into the country to the north with the purpose of making his way to the western border by routes that no other British subject had taken. He must have travelled between 12 and fifteen hundred miles in this way, often through districts that no European had visited before.

To the geographer his observations must be of great value, though it may be regretted that he could not take more instruments with him, but this was in no sense a scientific expedition. The general reader will follow his course with interest, for though Mr. Johnston's progress from day to day may recall the "Arabian," his short notes of people and conditions show a thorough knowledge of things Chinese and unusual fairness of mind in judging them.

He visited the monasteries of Mount Omei, which he describes very fully, and digresses into an interesting account of the Chinese religion and of Buddhism in particular, to which he returns later when he meets the Tibetan Buddhists. His description of affairs on the border is very important and leads to interesting excursions into history and institutions. His intention had been to penetrate into Tibet, but at Tachienlu he found that border disturbances made it impossible so he turned southward, coming out at Bhamo and Mandalay.

White Sam had a little money he decided that he might meet with some reverses and drew $105 more and started for the Spindle City. He stopped at Lawrence, and in the down river city met one Joseph Alabaza. The latter was willing to act as an agent for Sam, and promised the latter that he would get one of the fairest daughters of Syria for the man who was anxious to wed. After Joseph had learned that Sam had some money on his person invited the latter to make a trip to Boston.

A couple of days spent in Boston was productive of the information on Joseph's part that he had landed one of the finest beauties in the land, and said she was the daughter of Simon Moses and resided in South Framingham.

The pair made a trip to South Framingham and Mr. Moses, so the story goes, said his daughter was worth a lot, and advised Sam to send home for $20 more. Sam complied with the hint, telegraphed to his brother Kahl, in Faraway Cobalt, and the money was sent to the Shawmut bank, Boston. There Sam drew it, and on Friday last Sam and Alabaza went to South Framingham. The beautiful daughter of Moses had said her "yes" to the wedding arrangements and Sam George was a happy man.

After Sam left the train in the South Framingham station he crossed some railroad tracks. Moses and Alabaza were with him.

"Have you a pistol?" asked Alabaza of Sam.

"No, I haven't," replied Sam.

"We merely asked you because it is much safer to have a pistol; there are terrible thieves about, Americans call them yeggs."

The next thing that Samuel knew was that he was knocked down from behind, blindfolded and led to a room in a strange house. When the bandage was removed from his eyes he found he was "out" just $45. Alabaza and Moses, so it is said, told Sam that if he breathed a word of what had happened he would be a candidate for a resting place in a cemetery.

Sam left the house in question and immediately telegraphed to his brother Kahl. Kahl made a hurried

Saw the Great Eucharistic Parade in London

Demonstration Was Held Up
Once by Great Crush—Pope's
Legate Accompanied by a
Bodyguard of English Peers

LONDON, Sept. 14.—A great procession of Catholic clergy, which brought the Eucharistic congress to an end, was held yesterday afternoon amid scenes such as the English churchmen who planned it had never anticipated. Cardinal Vanvitelli, the pope's legate, walked at the head of the procession, wearing his scarlet robes and hat, but not carrying the host. He was accompanied by a bodyguard of English peers, of whom the Duke of Norfolk was the most prominent, and a concourse of cardinals, archbishops and bishops, who also were attired in uncerebral robes instead of vestments, which originally it had been proposed they should wear.

No such throngs of people have been seen in London since Queen Victoria's funeral, if even then. The purpose of Archbishop Bourne, the head of the Westminster diocese, and his associates who arranged the program, had been to have the host carried through the streets in the rear of Westminster cathedral, so that the great body of Catholics who were unable to participate in any of the services within the cathedral should have an opportunity of joining in the Eucharistic observances and of seeing all the high ecclesiastics present in London on this memorable occasion.

The route of the procession was laid through the quiet streets adjacent to the cathedral, and but for the unexpected partisan strife, which a discussion of this ceremony brought on, it probably would have been solemnized quietly and in a reverent atmosphere. The great majority of those who attempted to witness the spectacle, however, apparently were attracted by curiosity and a small part were openly and demonstratively hostile. The Catholic element cheered heartily while the procession passed. Throughout the crowd, however, was also heard considerable "booing," such as the English people use in theatres to express displeasure with a play.

Streets Early Jammed

The people began flocking toward the cathedral hours before the procession started. They came from all directions; from the West End in automobiles and carriages; from the East End in busses; they poured across the river by all the bridges which converge toward Westminster, and excursion trains brought many from the provinces.

Long before the hour set for the ceremony it was impossible to get near the line of march. All the streets leading in that direction were packed and the windows overlooking the procession, rented at high prices, were filled. Thousands of persons gathered on the roofs of the houses, from which there was a considerable display of the papal colors. The police had not expected such crowds and met with much opposition in their attempts to keep the parade route clear, which they hardly succeeded in doing, so that the papal legate and his followers had to make their way through a narrow lane, being frequently and unpleasantly jostled about. A number of persons fainted in the crush, and were carried off in ambulances.

After the procession had re-entered the cathedral Cardinal Vanvitelli appeared on the high balcony in gorgeous robes and elevated the host while the thousands of Catholics outside the building reverently knelt.

The last day of the congress opened with pontifical mass in the cathedral, which was celebrated by the papal legate and at which all the cardinals, archbishops and bishops and many others of the clergy assisted. The great edifice was crowded, the audience following with rapt attention the sermon of Cardinal Gibbons, who preached eloquently.

When the congregations poured out of the edifice they found the crowd already was assembling for the procession. Large forces of police were assisted by some 15,000 Catholics, who had volunteered to line the route, but even this army of men was unable to prevent the participants in the parade from being shoulder'd by the curious. Before the procession started vespers were sung within the cathedral, at the conclusion of which the processions passed down the nave, singing "Faith of Our Fathers," which was taken up by the congregation and the vast crowds without.

As the head of the procession emerged from the cathedral door a cheer went up which was repeated as cardinal after cardinal came slowly out, followed by the archbishops, bishops, minor prelates of the church and a great army of white surpliced men, singing hymns. Most of the prelates carried their vestments over their arms, but the legate was in full court dress, his scarlet robes and red hat lending distinction to his commanding figure. The hand of the pope's representative, which were to have carried the host, showered continual blessings upon the people, who reverently bowed on sightseeing than anything else.

Those who had been crowded out of the cathedral were permitted to participate in the ceremony, as the legate, robed in his vestments, appeared on the balcony outside the buildings and presented the Sacred Sacrament and pronounced the benediction. The assembly then sang hymns and the members of the Catholic society, with banners flying, marched through the streets to their halls and churches, some of them proceeding later to the stations, where the trains were waiting to take them back to the provincial centers. In the meantime the papal legate within the building pronounced the benediction, and the congress closed.

GREAT ANXIETY

Was Felt at Vatican Over Eucharistic Congress

ROME, Sept. 14.—Considerable anxiety has been felt at the vatican since the opening of the Eucharistic congress in London, with regard to the procession of the Blessed Sacrament in the streets, partly because it was feared that the procession might be prohibited and partly because, if it was not prohibited, it might be the cause of unpleasant incidents.

The pope, whose faith in British liberty is very great, has been optimistic all the while, and when it was learned that it had been definitely decided to abandon the procession on the original lines, he felt greatly disappointed, although, after deep thought he concluded that perhaps this was the wisest thing, for fear the Catholic manifestation might create a misunderstanding as to the intentions and desires of the church of Rome.

The Corrispondenza Romana, a Catholic organ, publishes the following communication, evidently inspired by the vatican:

"The procession did not occur. Although regretting this omission, we wish to point out, and we appreciate the liberty and respect which surrounded the Eucharistic congress under the shadow of the British flag.

It has been said that the procession could not be allowed, as such processions are forbidden by a law passed in the sixteenth century.

This is not a serious matter, as everybody knows that such a law, like similar other laws, became automatically obsolete through religious liberty granted later to British subjects.

A few Protestant societies, aspiring to archaeological fame by exhibiting past proscriptions, were merely the proverbial fly trying to drag the coach.

If the fly should be alone the anti-eucharistic coach of the sixteenth century would have never left the memory of religious persecutions.

What moved the coach was the efficacious intervention of certain politicians, who depicted the procession as a manifestation disagreeable to the French bloc and thus hurtful to the interests of the Anglo-French entente, an act which would have sent them to prison in their sweet French country, and would have given umbrage to Paris.

"For the same reason, the words of the pope to the French pilgrims on Monday were taken advantage of, the enemies of the church pretending that the pontiff had praised British liberty for the purpose of punishing in the pillory the small tyrants of Paris.

These same persons urged the British government not to be the tool of vatican tactics.

The truth is that in Monday's impromptu speech the pope merely paraphrased the words of Archbishop Aix, the leader of the pilgrimage who himself compared British liberty with what he termed French tyranny.

Thus, the pope's words were distorted first in Paris and then in London.

"Nevertheless, the eucharistic congress remains a glorious memory for the Catholic world, as well as a proof of British liberty and hospitality.

The omission of the procession will serve to show to the public from which quarters come directly or indirectly all sectarian inspirations against the Catholic church."

liberty is very great, has been optimistic all the while, and when it was learned that it had been definitely decided to abandon the procession on the original lines, he felt greatly disappointed, although, after deep thought he concluded that perhaps this was the wisest thing, for fear the Catholic manifestation might create a misunderstanding as to the intentions and desires of the church of Rome.

The Corrispondenza Romana, a Catholic organ, publishes the following communication, evidently inspired by the vatican:

"The procession did not occur. Although regretting this omission, we wish to point out, and we appreciate the liberty and respect which surrounded the Eucharistic congress under the shadow of the British flag.

It has been said that the procession could not be allowed, as such processions are forbidden by a law passed in the sixteenth century.

This is not a serious matter, as everybody knows that such a law, like similar other laws, became automatically obsolete through religious liberty granted later to British subjects.

A few Protestant societies, aspiring to archaeological fame by exhibiting past proscriptions, were merely the proverbial fly trying to drag the coach.

If the fly should be alone the anti-eucharistic coach of the sixteenth century would have never left the memory of religious persecutions.

What moved the coach was the efficacious intervention of certain politicians, who depicted the procession as a manifestation disagreeable to the French bloc and thus hurtful to the interests of the Anglo-French entente, an act which would have sent them to prison in their sweet French country, and would have given umbrage to Paris.

For the same reason, the words of the pope to the French pilgrims on Monday were taken advantage of, the enemies of the church pretending that the pontiff had praised British liberty for the purpose of punishing in the pillory the small tyrants of Paris.

These same persons urged the British government not to be the tool of vatican tactics.

The truth is that in Monday's impromptu speech the pope merely paraphrased the words of Archbishop Aix, the leader of the pilgrimage who himself compared British liberty with what he termed French tyranny.

Thus, the pope's words were distorted first in Paris and then in London.

Nevertheless, the eucharistic congress remains a glorious memory for the Catholic world, as well as a proof of British liberty and hospitality.

The omission of the procession will serve to show to the public from which quarters come directly or indirectly all sectarian inspirations against the Catholic church."
